POLITICAL SPOTLIGHT ON SOUTH OXFORD TO-DAY

CIVIL SERVANTS' PAY IN BRITAIN TO BE RESTORED

Budget to Be Brought Down To-morrow Expected Also to Restore Cuts Made in Relief Payments

Most Cheerful Budget Since 1931

By Thomas T. Champion
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 16.—Restoration of the cuts made in relief payments to the unemployed, restoration of civil service cuts and easing off in the entertainment taxes are confidently expected to be announced in the budget to-morrow.

Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, talked over the details of the budget with his fellow cabinet ministers to-night and around 4 p.m. to-morrow they will be revealed.

It will be a far more cheerful budget speech than any since the financial crisis of 1931, when the Labor government fell and the National government came in with its "axe and ax" method of restoring financial stability—a method that finally produced a surplus of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 on the fiscal year ended last month.

Although it was generally expected the Civil Service cuts for judges, police, soldiers, sailors, civil servants and teachers would be restored along with unemployment benefits, the former may be postponed to October in order that only half the cost might fall on the present budget.

It was not expected the 20 percent reduction in salaries of cabinet ministers and of 10 percent in salaries of other ministers and members of the House of Commons would be restored.

DEBT TOKEN PAYMENT
The Chancellor was furthermore expected to provide nothing more for debt payment to the United States than another small "token" payment, pointing to revision on the debt as early as possible.

Some uncertainty existed as to what the Chancellor would do with the stiff income tax. He is able to (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

GIRL FOUND, BOY MISSING

Police and Searchers Looking For Three Persons Who Have Disappeared

Coincidentally with the report that Doris Morrison, 1314 Haultain Street, had been found, after being missing for several days, city police yesterday were notified that Dabert Le Marquand had disappeared from his home, 1145 May Street.

With this latest report there are still three persons listed as missing in the city and district. The whereabouts of Mrs. H. B. Nichol, 648 Belmont Avenue, J. E. Bowden, Langford, are still unknown.

Miss Morrison was found by her mother. An unconfirmed report stated Mrs. Nicolle had been seen at the rear of the old Dunsmuir estate in Victoria West, on Saturday night, but some doubt existed as to whether or not it was the missing woman.

The Le Marquand boy is described as fifteen years old, six feet tall, fair hair, wearing a bluish grey overcoat, with sport pants and no hat. He has not been seen since 9:30 o'clock last night.

Meanwhile the search for Mr. Bowden is continuing in the Shawinigan Lake and Malahat district, where his motorcycle and side car were found a week ago. There were no reports of his having been seen by anyone in the area over the week-end.

VOTE TEST ON RELIEF BILL

Mrs. Richard Bennett Says Husband Beat Her at Beverly Hills, Cal.

Beverly Hills, Cal., April 16.—Mrs. Richard Bennett, wife of the veteran actor, brought the reports of domestic trouble in the Bennett family to a head to-day with charges her husband had beaten her.

She asked Bennett's arrest in a warrant charging battery. Persons present when Mrs. Bennett appeared Saturday before a police court judge to swear out the complaint said she bore a cut over one eye, and appeared to have been struck on the nose.

The warrant was not served on the stage and screen star, however, for police found the Bennett residence is outside the Beverly Hills city limits.

A. S. Rennie, Liberal, in Contest With Hon. Donald Sutherland, Conservative, For Seat in Ottawa House

Critical Test For Ministry, Says King

Canadian Press

Ingersoll, Ont., April 16.—South Oxford electors went to the polls to-day to name probably the last representative in the House of Commons this riding will ever have. After a campaign in which numerous notables on both sides of the House took part, the electors were left to choose between A. S. Rennie, Liberal, and Hon. Donald Sutherland, Conservative.

Reports indicated a heavy vote was being cast. To-day's by-election will almost certainly be the last polling held in this riding, as South Oxford will be merged with North Oxford in the next general election under redistribution provisions.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, was the last speaker of the campaign in a constituency which at the 1930 general election returned a Liberal, Thomas M. Cayley, who died about year ago.

Mr. King closed the campaign Saturday evening with a speech in which he suggested the government insisted on holding the election to-day because the budget, which will be brought down Wednesday in the House of Commons, might contain news of increased national debt or heavier taxes.

VOICE OF PEOPLE
Mr. King told a capacity audience a Liberal victory would be interpreted by the people of Canada, and, the administration adhered to British parliamentary practice, would precipitate a general election.

The Liberal leader derided statements of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, that Mr. Sutherland should be sent to Parliament to fight the battle of the constituency's tobacco growers on the ground he had investigated claims a buyers combine existed. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

TROTSKY IN HIDING AGAIN

Fearing Assassination in France, He Disappears From Villa

By Fred Abbott, Associated Press Staff Writer

Barbizon, France, April 16.—Leon Trotsky, fleeing an attack on his life by White Russians, fled early to-day from his newly-uncovered hiding place in Barbizon.

Neighbors said the Communist leader, an exile from Soviet Russia, and his wife left the secluded villa where they had been in hiding for three months by automobile. Their destination was not revealed.

The Surete Generale started a hunt for the fugitive Soviet leader soon as his disappearance became known. His flight was so sudden the official said his stay in the neighborhood were not aware of it.

Secret police said they doubted if he had gone far and hazarded the guess he was seeking a similar haven in a nearby town since a permit to live in France restricts residents to that locality.

LOCKS AND BARBED WIRE
Trotsky, tolling behind heavy locks and barbed wire, with two guns in easy reach and police dogs menacing passersby, was revealed to-day as the sponsor of a "Fourth International," whose guiding principle is permanent revolution.

The exiled Russian revolutionist was discovered Sunday when gendarmes, expecting to find spies, counterespionage, Slavinsky gangsters or gun smugglers, raided his villa on the edge of the Forest of Fontainebleau. Trotsky said he had hidden himself behind the high wire fence with his (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

Budget Speech Mr. Rhodes Will Deliver in Commons at Ottawa Wednesday Expected to Disclose Substantial Deficit

Ottawa, April 16.—With budget day in the offing and a federal by-election taking place to-day, Parliament looks forward to an interesting week. Third reading of the 1934 relief bill was expected to be the first order of business in the House of Commons to-day.

Mr. H. E. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, expects to present his budget Wednesday. All eyes were centred on the constituency of South Oxford, Ontario, to-day as the electors went to the polls after a lively campaign. The result is awaited with interest.

DEFICIT FORESEEN
Mr. Rhodes' budget will likely reveal a substantial deficit in the government finances last year, for despite the fact revenue returns showed a highly satisfactory improvement in the latter part of the fiscal year, the first part of the year was disappointing.

As usual, the contents of the budget are closely guarded secrets. Tariff and taxation changes, however, are expected to be few. Certain alterations in the tariff structure to give effect to changes in the trade treaty with the United Kingdom agreed on between the two governments will be revealed.

SUGAR TAX
With respect to taxation, it is believed if any new sources of revenue are to be tapped they will touch only those in the best position to pay, with possibly a lessening of the burden of a tax on the masses, particularly with reference to the sugar tax.

KARL DANE ENDS HIS LIFE

Former Movie Comedian Dies Penniless in Hollywood; Studio to Pay For Funeral

Hollywood, Cal., April 16.—The studio that lifted Karl Dane from obscurity to film prominence to-day said his body from Potters Field. Officials of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio called the county morgue, where the body of Dane has been since the suicide last Saturday evening, to say arrangements were being made for the funeral.

It was at the M.G.M. studio that Dane jumped from the ranks of the extra to prominence overnight by his portrayal of "Slim" in King Vidor's "The Big Parade." That success won him a part with Lillian Gish in "The Scarlet Letter" with Charles Greenwood in "Baby Mine," and with George K. Arthur in a series of comedies.

All this success was in the realm of silent pictures. The talkies came in and the quick fame vanished as quickly as it had come. Dane's voice has been heard since the money he earned was quickly dissipated. He tried his hand as an automobile mechanic, returned to carpentry, the occupation he had followed in his native Denmark. Last Saturday, tired and discouraged by his failure even to win an extra role, he shot himself through the head.

He was penniless and had been aided by others.

But Generally Government Employees' "National Protest" Strike Against Pay Cuts Is Described As Flop

Staff Writer

Paris, April 16.—Government employees, in a "national protest" strike to-day against pay cuts, paralyzed wire communications between Paris and the provinces, but otherwise the walkout was a flop.

Police, guarded post offices and other public buildings watching for demonstrations which did not develop. Telegraph employees who struck for a few minutes daily for the last week stretched their fingers to two hours to-day, then returned to their instruments.

Long distance telephone operators, however, walked out at 11:30 a.m. and stayed out. Waterworks employees reached their jobs an hour later and workers in the government tobacco factories loafed for an hour.

SWARMS OF RODENTS IN CITY SEEN AS BIG MENACE IN SPREADING PESTILENCE

To combat the swarm of rats which are over-running the city at the present time, the civic department of health to-day enlisted the services of an expert rat-catcher with special traps made to catch the rodents.

In order to facilitate the work of cleaning up the vermin-carrying animals, the department has issued a request for co-operation from the citizens at large, asking householders to communicate with the civic authorities to secure the services of the rat-catcher and to use private methods as well in their campaign against the rodents.

Heavy rains last month drove hundreds of rats out of their regular quarters in sewerage dumps and forced them to seek shelter in homes, where they have thrived exceptionally well.

ONTARIO C.C.F. REORGANIZES

Provincial Council Given Power to Discipline Units

Toronto, April 16.—The Ontario branch of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation was re-organized and launched on a new career after a stormy fifteen-hour conference here Saturday. The new constitution places discipline in the hands of the provincial council and provides membership shall be obtained through political groups whose members are willing to adhere strictly to the party's programme.
The Labor conference leftist group declared it considered itself "excluded" under the new constitution, following the lengthy conference. Proposals of this group met defeat as the new constitution was approved clause by clause.
E. J. Garland, United Farmers of Alberta member in the House of Commons for Bow River, appealed to those who did not approve of the new constitution to withdraw from the convention. It was the only honorable thing to do, Mr. Garland said.
J. S. Woodsworth, Lab.- member of the House of Commons for Winnipeg North Centre and national president of the C.C.F., supported Mr. Garland as the delegates broke into applause. SANG "RED FLAG."

The leftist group then broke into song. They sang the "Red Flag" and the "Internationale." Finally they were drowned out by boos.
Alderman John Mitchell of Hamilton was elected president of the new Ontario branch and Graham Spry of Ottawa was named vice-president. Two ballots were required to select Mr. Spry as the first ballot showed there were more ballots than delegates.
During debate on the constitution, Mr. E. Morton, secretary of the Labor Conference, moved an amendment to the membership clause which would permit trade unions to join the C.C.F. Chairman Angus MacInnis ruled the amendment out of order as in direct opposition to the motion.
The chairman's ruling was challenged and was sustained by a large vote.

NO ALLIANCES
Saturday evening J. S. Woodsworth declared the C.C.F. never enter any "entangling alliance" with the other parties in politics.
The national chairman, speaking at a banquet in his honor, said the federation must insist on loyalty to its principles by its members. "I think I speak for the organization," he said, "when I say we would rather go down to defeat than win by means of compromise."
Elsewhere in his address he said: "I would suggest we must not, either through despair or hysteria, hark back to the old policies. We cannot go back; we have to go forward, and here is where the test of democracy comes to-day."
"I think," he continued, "an increasing number of people across this country despair of political salvation through either of the two old parties."
Of unemployment, he said: "We propose to find work even though we have to put the whole resources of this country at the disposal of the government in doing so. No Canadian citizen has the right to live in comfort while his fellow-citizens live in abject poverty."

Bureau of Statistics Gives Figures For All Canada For Last Week; Car Loadings Growing

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 16.—Reflecting marked improvement in economic conditions in Canada during the last year, the weekly index of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics was practically maintained in the week ended April 7 at the level of the preceding week.
The index expressed as a percentage of the average for 1926 was 89.2 in the period under review, the change from the last week of March being slight. The index moved up sharply after the beginning of the year, and has since fluctuated near the 90 per cent level without an important movement in either direction.
As the index of economic conditions was 89.5 in the same week of 1933, there is a clear indication of considerable betterment in the last twelve months.

EMPLOYMENT FIGURES
In measuring the gain in productive operations, it is noteworthy that employment, according to the official index, averaged more than 17 per cent greater in the first quarter than in the same period of 1933, the average in the average index being from 77.4 to 90.9. The gain in the index of the physical volume of business, averaged for the first two months of the year, was from 67.8 to 88.6, or about 28 per cent.
In the first two months of the year, the flour milling industry was considerably more active than in the same period of 1932 and 1933.

THREE LOSE LIVES IN ONTARIO FIRE

Woman and Two Daughters Victims of Blaze at Aylmer

Canadian Press
Aylmer, Ont., April 16.—A mother and her two daughters were suffocated and one fireman injured in a fire which swept through the Aylmer Inn here early to-day.
Those who lost their lives were Mrs. Grace Wetherell, twenty-eight-year-old widow, and her two daughters, Stella, eleven, and Dorothy, eight.
Clarence Gifford, fireman, was injured.
The fire apparently started in Burton's grocery store in the hotel building. It was believed the store was broken into as David Herman, owner of the inn, discovered the door leading from the shop to the inn had been opened and flames were enveloping the establishment.
He rushed upstairs, calling out an alarm, which Mrs. Wetherell evidently did not hear. After firemen had arrived Mrs. Wetherell was seen through a window on the top floor of the three-story brick building. She cried for help, then fell back.
Gifford was struck on the head by a falling brick. He was carried out by other fire-fighters and taken to a hospital.
The front apartments were gutted. Total damage is estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000.

Earth Tremors Are Felt In New England

Series Recorded at Harvard University Said to Have Centred Within 125 Miles

Associated Press
Harvard, Mass., April 16.—Dr. L. D. Leet, head of the Harvard University seismograph station here, says a series of thirty-seven separate and distinct earth tremors recorded during the week-end was one of the longest New England has ever experienced since earthquakes first were recorded.
Dr. Leet said the series began Friday evening at 9:22 o'clock and extended until 3:04 p.m. Sunday. The instruments showed the quakes took place within a radius of 125 miles of the station.

The seismologist said the shocks, which attracted widest attention by rattling dishes and window panes, were recorded on the instrument at 9:59 o'clock Saturday evening.
IN MONTREAL DISTRICT
Montreal, April 16.—Minor earth tremors were felt in northern Montreal shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday evening, but no damage has been recorded.
The shock was most apparent in suburban Outremont. Owing to lack of a seismograph for recording disturbances of the earth, the McGill University observatory was unable to detect the quakes which had also been felt in Albany and Burlington, N.Y.
Operators of the fire alarm headquarters on Fletcher's Field reported the building was shaken slightly at about 10 p.m. Saturday.

ITALY TRIES BIG DEFLATION

Country-wide Cut in Salaries and Living Costs Ordered; Export Trade Sought

Associated Press
Rome, April 16.—The council of ministers on Saturday decreed sweeping reductions in salaries and the cost of living in order to place Italy in a position to compete with other nations in the foreign market.
The council, over which Premier Mussolini presided in person, ordered all rents in Italy reduced 12 per cent. Government employees' salaries were cut from six to twelve per cent.
All other costs, such as food, transportation and utilities are to fall in proportion so Italy can manufacture goods that will have even price chances with those of other nations.

SECOND EXPERIMENT
This is the second such nationwide deflation in three years, another having been ordered in October, 1930, almost the same measure.
The salaries of employees of industry and commerce will be reduced through the Fascist corporative state organization.
Government employees with salaries up to 500 lire ($42.50) a month are not touched.
The rental on stores was reduced 15 per cent.
The council ministers voted to slash their own salaries 20 per cent.
PENSIONS REMAIN
The cabinet also reduced the prices of goods in government co-operative stores for government employees 10 per cent. On the other hand, reductions are made in the living allowances given certain classes of government employees. Pensions, however, are left untouched.
The council called attention to the fact the cost of living was declining in Italy from a level of 100 in June, 1927, to 73.78 last March.

JAPAN-CHINA CRISIS SEEN

Peking, China, April 16.—Chinese officials here feel a new crisis with Japan is not far off unless China agrees to resume rail traffic and postal service to Mukden, Manchukuo.
Because China does not recognize the new Manchurian state under the Japanese-protected Emperor Kang Teh, service has not been established from Peking to Mukden in spite of demands the Japanese are said to have presented.
The Japanese are saying nothing about the alleged demands, but Chinese here believe Japan will demand a reply from China at least before May 31, the first anniversary of the signing of the Tangu pact, which halted Japan's invasion of North China in 1933.

Banks Attacked By U.S. Priest

Republic's Federal Reserve System Scored By Rev. C. E. Coughlin, Detroit

Associated Press
Detroit, April 16.—Assailing the United States Federal Reserve banking system as within the control of international bankers, Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin yesterday termed it the "fountain head of malicious advice to presidential ears," and charged it "stands between us and national recovery."
"President Roosevelt," said Father Coughlin in his regular Sunday address, "has arrived at the point where he is about to witness an anti-climax to his industrial and agricultural policies unless the strange hold of the international bankers is broken."
He assailed what he termed the "regimentation of industry and agriculture," which he said was "desired only by communists and international bankers," and said the Federal Reserve banking system, "established to prevent depressions," had "run to cover... when our financial system collapsed in March, 1933."

PLAN OF BORROWING
Father Coughlin criticized the policy of the United States treasury as "asinine, in trying to borrow us into prosperity," and coupled with the statement an assertion that a "stupor of propaganda" is under way to curtail the use of silver.
The militant priest recommended establishment of a national bank in the United States, with branches in every city "owned by the people of the United States," to be the depository of every national bank in the country to establish adequate credit and currency.

"It is commonly asserted the President is beginning to lose his former prestige," Father Coughlin said. "Meanwhile the rumors grow that while he may have been the Moses to lead America out of an Egyptian depression, yet unfortunately, he is getting lost in the narrow confines of the desert beyond which there is the promised land of prosperity."
All this Father Coughlin said could be attributed briefly, to "the effect on the part of the administration towards regimenting industry and agriculture and to its seeming lack of effort to regiment finance."

PARDON SUGGESTED FOR JAMES FAHEY

Head of R.C.M.P. Expresses Opinion on U.S. Extradition Case at Edmonton

Canadian Press
Edmonton, April 16.—The head of the world-famous police force that arrested James Fahey, twenty-four years of freedom following his escape from the Leavenworth, Kansas, Penitentiary holds the personal opinion that any man who can "come back" and live a respectable life for twenty-four years deserves a pardon.
This was revealed in an interview here with Major-General J. E. McLaughlin, head of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and "Canada's most handsome soldier."
The general discussed the Fahey case in an unofficial manner, explaining the police had only done their duty when they arrested the man and identified him as a fugitive from justice. The police were judges and the case was now out of their hands, he said.

FOLLOW NEW WAGE RULING

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 16.—Pending passage of the salary deduction bill now before the Commons, which exempts from the 10 per cent cut those civil servants receiving compensation of $1,000 or less per annum, cheques for the current salaries are being issued on the basis of the amending legislation.
The following statement was issued at the week-end by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance:
"In view of the number of misconceptions that have arisen concerning the salary deduction bill, it seems desirable some explanation should be made of its terms. In general, the terms of the act in effect for the last two years are continued, during the current fiscal year, except that the employee whose compensation does not exceed $1,000 is exempt from deduction."
"The provision for treasury board regulations is continued, in order to ensure that application of the terms of the bill to the 60,000 government employees may be on a fair and equitable basis. With this object in view, the board will issue detailed regulations when the bill has been passed. In the meantime, it is necessary that pay cheques be issued and this is being done, so far as possible, in accordance with the general terms of the bill."
"It should be understood, however, that the basis of cheques issued to certain classes, including among others, seasonal and part-time employees, is subject to final decision by the treasury board, in accordance with the practice of previous years."

STADIUM PLAN IN VANCOUVER

With Grandstand and Auditorium, Scheme Would Cost $2,000,000

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 16.—A proposal to build a large stadium, a grandstand and an auditorium on the site of the Kitilano Indian Reserve at a cost of approximately $2,000,000, has been submitted to the town planning commission by a local firm of architects.
The commission received the proposal, which would be entirely in the nature of a relief measure and which will be dealt with by a special committee which will submit its findings at the next meeting of the commission.

France's Budget Balanced To-day

Paris, April 16.—Premier Gaston Doumergue finally balanced France's budget on Saturday.
The cabinet adopted five decrees reducing French pensions. These decrees completed 4,000,000,000 francs (298,400,000) in economies, effective immediately.
The budget, as voted March 1, provides for expenditures of 48,318,570,000 francs (about $3,000,000,000) with a surplus of 9,000,000 francs, but the government admitted it had over-estimated the probable receipts.
Answering the war veterans' ultimatum that they would clean up France is the government did not, the cabinet announced judicial and administrative reforms are already under way.

Seeding Advanced In South Alberta

Good Progress Made, With Half Wheat Crop to Be Sowed By End of Week

Canadian Press
Calgary, April 16.—With better than the average soil conditions, wheat seeding is making fast progress in southern Alberta, and by the end of the week, if the excellent weather conditions continue, more than 50 per cent of the 1934 crop will be in the ground. Sowing is general to-day, and there is plenty of moisture to germinate the crop and carry it along until June.
Beet seeding is proceeding normally with a good seed bed, while there is a rapid growth of grass on the ranges. Livestock has come through the winter in excellent condition preparatory to going on summer pasturage. There was some soil drifting during recent high winds, but no serious damage was reported.

URGE ASTROLOGY FOR INSURANCE

Horoscopes on Auto Accidents Proposed For English Companies

Reuter's Special
London, April 16.—There is a lot of luck about road accidents. A group of clever astrologers have been discussing this question here. It was remarked that insurance companies could save themselves a tremendous lot of expensive claims if only they would have cast the natal horoscopes of prospective clients.
One speaker thought that Mars was the chief delinquent. Maybe he was right. But that is not the whole story. It was suggested that Mercury and the Third House had a compelling influence in regard to a question of road safety.
Generally, superstitious folk are dreadfully afraid to boast. They never lose an occasion to boast of their immunity from road troubles. And just because they back the horoscope.
It is proposed, therefore, that drivers' horoscopes supplying accurate times of birth and so it will be possible to pick out those who are immune from accidents, and those who will rush headlong into trouble. There will, of course, be doubtful cases.

CHILD VICTIM OF LEUKEMIA PASSES

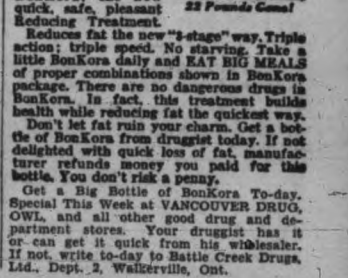

Winnie Mae Miller Loses Her Fight For Life at Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis, Tenn., April 16.—Winnie Mae Miller, four-year-old victim of leukemia, died at a hospital here Saturday after a valiant but hopeless fight for life.
Her "fans" had attracted the sympathy of thousands, and letters offering words of encouragement and hope came to her from Canada and all parts of the United States.
Physicians said from the first there was no hope of cure. Too young to understand the seriousness of her predicament, she had laughed and played with her toys almost to the time of her death.
The child was given blood transfusions and X-ray treatment with little apparent success.
She was kept in a hospital for weeks, but such crowds came to view her she was removed to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Miller. Daily trips were made to the hospital.
Several days ago she ceased the visits to the hospital, but a dietitian took over her case.
She was suddenly stricken Saturday morning, rushed back to the hospital and died on reaching there at 4:45 a.m.

WE MUST HAVE MORE TRADE

IT IS GRADUALLY BEING REALIZED that the solution of the greater part of Canada's economic problem lies in the development of her external trade. The value of this business now is less than two-fifths of what it was four years ago and the total is a little less than in 1913 when our population was under seven and a half millions. The trade of the world, of course, has been shot to pieces; but what began in 1929 was what such far-seeing economists as Sir George Paish predicted as the penalty for adding bricks to tariff walls. Every country got the idea that it could do all the selling and little of the buying. It was a universal attempt to overcome a natural economic law with an artificial formula. We know the price of the failure.

Canada will have to do something about this tariff business if she is to salvage some of the trade which she ought to be doing. We can not live by taking in one another's washing. And we are told plainly by Mr. C. R. Stevens, one of the Dominion trade commissioners now stationed at Melbourne, Australia, in the current issue of Maclean's Magazine, that "if Canadians were forced to cease importing and exporting; if we made every item which we need for ourselves, half our population would be forced to emigrate or starve." Mr. Stevens has been studying the trends of world and inter-imperial trade, and his analysis of Canada's relation to the general picture is, to say the least, not a little disturbing.

Thirty-five years ago, says Mr. Stevens, the optimists among us were talking about the twentieth century being Canada's century. In 1911 Sir Joseph Ward, then Prime Minister of New Zealand, declared that our Dominion would have a population of between thirty and forty millions by 1936. "We forced him to amend his estimate," he said. "We said it was too low." Now, with the century a third over, we have ten millions and our basic problem is not how to get more millions but "how we are going to support the ten millions we have now."

Mr. Stevens asks if we Canadians ever think of what it is we live by. He answers the question this way: "Let us suppose that you and I and every Canadian receives $100 each month as wages or salary. Of that sum at least thirty dollars has arrived in our purses from foreign sources. Or, to put it another way, without export markets our national activity and our national income would be reduced by thirty per cent. The United States has never been interested in foreign trade to the extent of more than ten per cent. Consequently, as Canadians, we are three times more sensitive to world conditions than our neighbors." We read further:

Comparing the total of Canadian production with the share which it is necessary to sell beyond Canada, you will find that if your income is derived from Canadian grains, fruits or vegetables, $54.75 of every $100 which you receive comes from abroad. If your livelihood depends on meat, dairy, or fish industries, about the same proportion, or fifty-five per cent of your earnings, is supplied by foreign customers. If you are connected with forest industries, you are almost entirely dependent on export returns; $85 out of every $100 which you receive will have come from overseas.

It is, therefore, evident that Canada is first of all an export country and that she must live beyond the seas. Anything that restricts our world trade not only pushes dreams of a greater Canada into the background, but threatens the comfort and well-being of our present population. A self-contained Canada is a hopelessly bankrupt Canada.

To aggravate the condition which has reduced Canada's business with foreign countries there has now broken out in Great Britain what Mr. Stevens terms "Elliotism." Under the leadership of aggressive Rt. Hon. Walter E. Elliot, now Minister of Agriculture, Britain, which in normal times buys one-fifth of all the exports of the world, seems committed to a policy that would reduce her external purchases of foodstuffs to the irreducible minimum. Normally United Kingdom imports of foodstuffs run about $2,500,000,000 a year. Major Elliot, says Mr. Stevens, believes that $1,000,000,000 can and should be copied off this annual bill.

Already, as the result of duties and quotas, Britain's pig population has increased by forty per cent and her output of bacon by seventy per cent. Now efforts are being directed toward reduction in the imports of dairy products. Later will come meats, cereals, fruit and fish.

"This is admirable business for Great Britain," Mr. Stevens points out, "but a very poor outlook for the British Dominions." A large share of the billion dollars to be copied off would have come to them. It might make the difference between prosperity and hard times. If economic nationalism continues to run riot and all other markets are sealed up, the difference between an assured and a restricted British market may represent to the overseas empire the difference between progress and disaster."

FRASER BRIDGES

KEEP YOUR EYE ON NEW WESTMINSTER. It now proudly claims to be the third shipping port of Canada, the others of the triad being Montreal and Vancouver. It expects to see five hundred deep-sea vessels enter and clear this year. It has a Harbor Board with jurisdiction clear down to the open sea.

All this explains the vigilance with which New Westminster followed the negotiations of the former provincial government and the company which has been promoting the construction of the new bridge at Ladner, about twenty miles down the Fraser. Naturally, any structure which was likely to interfere with the navigation of the river in any way would be an obstacle to New Westminster's progress. Apart from that the agreement embodied certain guarantees by the province and other obligations which might have made the project a costly one to the public in the end.

That arrangement was cancelled by the Legislature at its recent session, and another measure was passed which authorized the government to make a new agreement with the company, authorizing the construction of a toll bridge at a cost of $2,500,000, with certain stipulations for the protection of the navigable channel in the river, the province to provide a road for the southern approach, which, it is estimated, may cost $500,000.

New Westminster's attitude towards the new legislation is one of watchful waiting pending the precise nature of the agreement the government will enter into with the company under it. The city insists upon a high level bridge, instead of a low level one with a middle lift. So does the Harbor Board. Moreover, Hon. A. W. Gray, Minister of Lands and Minister of Municipalities, who also was mayor of New Westminster, made it clear during the session that he shares that insistence. He declared, too, that a low level bridge could be built for less than a million dollars, which would mean that the other $1,500,000 of the stipulated cost of $2,500,000 would be just so much water, and as tolls would be charged by the company on the whole cost, those using the bridge would pay excessively for the privilege of going over it, to the extent that they would pay on the $1,500,000 which would not enter into the cost. This, of course, would be a fat melon for the company. Incidentally, this excess, in itself, would be a substantial guarantee of profits at the expense of the public. Mr. Gray contended that a high level bridge could be built for $2,500,000, in which case there would be no watered stock drawing unearned dividends from public tolls, and there would be no menace to navigation on the river.

New Westminster is interested also in another bridge, but in a different direction. This is a structure almost at the city itself to replace the bridge which has done good service for many years, but is now obsolete and should be replaced. It also is being promoted by a private company, and tolls will be charged for its use. The only criticism of this proposal is that it will be owned by a private company which will charge tolls for its use. There is much point in this criticism. Important bridges across vital arteries of water communication should be publicly owned and operated, and such tolls as may have to be charged should go into the public treasury. If private companies can finance such projects on their prospects of toll revenues, the government ought to be able to do the same thing.

TORY RULE ON TRIAL

WHILE THE PEOPLE OF GREAT Britain are waiting for to-morrow's budget, with its $150,000,000 surplus, the National Government seems to be getting into hot water in many ways. It is being attacked for the introduction of a bill enlarging the powers of the police to search British homes for supposedly seditious literature. The activity of Fascists and Communists is responsible for the measure in question, which, by the way, gives authority to magistrates for summary trial of arrested persons, thus removing the right of trial by jury.

The Labor party has given notice that it will organize the bitterest fight possible on the ground that the bill opens the widest door of abuses to the British Secret Service. Supporting the Laborites are the Liberals, while The Manchester Guardian, bitterly assailing the bill, points out to the public that if, for example, a Labor newspaper published an appeal to troops to refuse to fire on strikers, "every possessor of a copy of that newspaper would be liable to prosecution."

Another sensation has been caused by Mr. Lloyd George injecting himself into the Hammersmith by-election campaign with the advice to Liberals to vote for the Labor candidate and thus insure the defeat of the government's standard-bearer.

"Put liberty and human progress first," Britain's war-time Premier advises the electors, "and choose the man who comes nearest representing your ideals. Do not search out remote differences on proposals which are not likely to come up for decision just yet. Concentrate on the practical questions with which we are and shall, for some years, be confronted, in Britain, in our empire and in the world."

The Manchester Guardian, Liberalism's newspaper bulwark, declares flatly that "Liberal-Labor co-operation probably offers the only hope of preserving the country from another seven or eight years of Tory rule." The point that seems to be worrying this great daily, however, is "which party will admit the fact."

For the Labor party itself, Mr. Lansbury, the leader of the parliamentary opposition, says that that opposition needs to be born again, as all of it, "right, left and centre, has become stodgy and full of doubts and difficulties."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS
La Patrie, Montreal

Considered generally, the League of Nations, imperfect as it is, through the lack of international spirit on the part of its members, is nevertheless an instrument which is rendered all the more necessary by the present conditions of living of the different states; an instrument which it is advisable to perfect, therefore, rather than to destroy.

RECOVERY IN CANADA
The Magazine of Wall Street

Canada seems to have made fully as much advance towards business recovery since last March as the United States has—and more steadily. The fact that there has been less governmental economic planning and conditioning or whether we would not have made considerable progress if we had not tried so hard collectively to attain it.

There is something to be remembered that Canada is profoundly affected, morally, if not directly, by the economic situation in the United States. It is probably fair to say that part of Canada's recovery is due to what has happened here. Also, increased costs and limitation of production in the United States, due to the codes (one of our artificial measures to improve business) have diverted some export business from the United States to Canada. Part of the Canadian improvement is doubtless due to governmental policy regarding foreign trade, notably in the effects of empire tariff preferences and quotas.

The situation here a year ago was more desperate than in Canada. Canada had no problem of banking collapse. But the rapidity of our recovery after the banking holiday of last March suggests that natural recuperative forces were ready to go to work.

TRACTOR

THE OTHER DAY when I visited a little farm in the Dry Belt, the farmer was fixing up his ancient tractor. It was the most important thing on the farm, the power which ploughed his fields, ran his tiny saw-mill, cut his stove-wood, ground his grain. Without more extra help than he could afford, the farmer couldn't get along without his tractor.

I asked him how much it cost. He said it cost $1,600. But if he had been an American and bought it in Seattle, he could have got it for less than $1,000. This fellow was thus paying $600 on this one item alone for the purpose of protecting certain industries. That meant he was paying over $100 a year, or about 200 bushels of wheat. In other words, every year he must cultivate, at the rate of production up there, almost ten acres extra every year just to pay his toll to the eastern industries on just one of many pieces of farm machinery.

"But," I said, "how much do you sell to the populations supported in the east by these industries?"
"This farm has been going since the sixties," he said, "and not a single pound of anything off it has ever gone east of the prairies."

When you come to think of it, hardly a pound of anything from this province is sold in eastern Canada. We have to depend entirely on world markets where we must sell against farmers who get their tractors at cost, against Russians who get them for nothing. Multiply this farmer by all our other farmers, our miners who require machinery, our lumbermen who have to buy saws, our fishermen who need gas engines for their boats. Multiply it by your own automobile, shoes, clothes, furniture. Add it up and then see if you think that British Columbia is unreasonable in asking temporary assistance from a federal government whose policy is to protect the eastern industry and its owner whatever happens to us.

As a matter of fact, the British Columbia Government is far too modest in its demands. It ought to demand a complete overhaul of the whole tariff and trading structure of the nation. If Canada is to continue, sooner or later such an overhaul must be made. That is what the Federal Government should be told.

It should be told that the man with the broken-down tractor, who can't afford a new one, is getting fed up.

GULLS

ANOTHER PROBLEM of grave national importance is the outrageous behaviour of the seagulls in Beacon Hill Park, and I commend them also to the Pattullo Government. When I was a little boy we used to go to the park before the swans and ducks. And what happened? Did we feed the ducks and swans? Did we consecrate anew the ancient sacrament which I had observed so faithfully thirty years ago? No, we did not. For the seagulls had found the park since then.

They swam in the lakes. Whenever the little girl threw a piece of crust into the water for the swans and ducks, a seagull swooped down with a knavish snarl and stole the food out of the mouths of the park's respectable residents. We tried every manoeuvre to avoid them. We chased them away. We went up to the swans and held out our hands. But every time the gulls swept down with a scream of passion and took the crust. If they don't look out pretty soon the swans and ducks will starve to death and we shall have a park full of seagulls.

Something should be done about this, for the swans and ducks of Beacon Hill are important, far more important and enduring than most of the political problems of the day, and speaking from personal experience, I should say that they have more effect on the character of our children than all their lessons at school. And another thing—if they will insist on holding the unhappy white bear a prisoner, at least they should teach her to stand up so that one can look at her, instead of lying on her back in a most undignified posture with her hands and feet in the air, and snoring raucously.

CROSS-SECTION

IMPRISONED in a train for six hours the other day, I had nothing to read but some popular magazines. They are illuminating in an indirect fashion. They give you a vivid picture of our age, a cross-section of our civilization. I took the trouble to note down the indelible impressions that the advertisements in a modern magazine would leave in the mind of a perfect stranger visiting this continent for the first time. He would conclude:

(1) That all women smoke cigarettes at the rate of about a hundred a day.
(2) That all women posture with hands on hips, spine curved like the figure 8 and middle thrust forward revolutely.
(3) That all women spend their entire time pursuing men and have no other interest in the world but sex.
(4) That all women are beautiful, except for half a dozen or so, who haven't discovered the value of somebody's cold cream or somebody else's eyebrow pencil.

(5) That most women are losing their husbands and lovers because they haven't discovered somebody's cold cream or somebody else's eyebrow pencil, or because they don't wash their ears frequently enough.

(6) That all men are naturally polygamous and can quickly be persuaded out of a lifetime of married life by someone who had discovered somebody's cold cream or eyebrow pencil and is careful to wash her ears frequently enough.

(7) That all women were physical wrecks until they discovered somebody's washing soap.

(8) That this continent is populated entirely by a lower grade of morons.

WOLF

SOME BRILLIANT child psychologists have discovered to their horror that animated movie cartoons like the "Three Little Pigs" are extremely dangerous to children. The gaily spectacle of the Big Bad Wolf, they argue, is likely to warp the infant mind and fill it full of undesirable pictures and make kids old before their time. And since this generation is entirely under the thumb of experts, who change their minds regularly twice a week, for a time at least millions of children won't be allowed to see Mr. Walt Disney's Silly Symphonies.

This is a perfect example of the expert mind at its best. What the expert mind needs is a little dose of Silly Symphonies itself. Then it will discover that the real effect of these things is not to make the young old, but the old young. Actually, Mr. Disney's colored cartoons of animals and strange imaginary creatures are the highest expression of genius that has ever come out of Hollywood, and one of the great contributions to the culture of our age.

Here at last Hollywood has lost its slimy sophistication and universal sex appeal and recognized that the public really has some better instincts after all. And the public, to its own surprise, has found that it is far more interested in the absurd antics of three little pigs, a tribe of Easter bunnies or a fiddling grasshopper than it is in seductions and adultery. To Mr. Disney, who discovered this fact, and proved it by the magnificent success of his work, the world owes a great debt.

He has demonstrated a deep, fundamental fact of human nature which the economists, the statesmen and the educators overlook in most of their solutions and plans for mankind—the fact that human beings are essentially children at heart, are really not much interested in complicated and dull things like economics and government, that their natural state is not in a fifty-story building or a ten-room apartment, but out on the green somewhere, gambling with the three little pigs, dancing with the Easter bunnies or getting in their own food and wood supply with the busy ants.

Eventually, when we have achieved a perfect form of government and a splendid economics and a universal prosperity, all based on such excellent theories as are constantly preached by this column, then it will suddenly be discovered that people still aren't satisfied. They will still prefer Silly Symphonies, still look back to the good old days when they were broke, barefoot and happy.

(From The Times Files)

The Y.M.C.A. building campaign was "squared away" with a will last night at the Empress Hotel when a hundred business men sat down to dinner and over their fish and soup laid plans for the fortnight's campaign whereby it is hoped to raise $100,000 for new quarters for the organization in this city.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Elford, Stadacona Avenue, when their daughter, Miss Laura Mabel Elford, was united in marriage with Percy R. Brown Jr., Rev. T. E. Holling officiating.

The G.T.F. will not put steamers on the run from Victoria to Prince Rupert this summer. This statement was made by E. J. Chamberlain, general manager of the company, this afternoon. The other enterprises that the company have on hand precludes its going into this service at the present.

Few people have any idea of the extent of the garden which is being made around the Empress Hotel. The rock gardens in particular are being transformed into fairy-like nooks under the master hand of E. A. Wallace, of Flewin's Gardens.

The Canadian Club of this city will invite Lord Kitchener of Khartoum to address them when he passes through here next summer.

WATER SURVEY

To the Editor:—Re "Water Survey Turned Down" your issue 15th inst. page 9 column 1, you say: "Efforts of myself to get said survey, had reached the same point they did several years ago when he made them to the council under the regime of Mayor Herbert Anson." That does not add any lustre to the ex-mayor. It simply means that this year's council does not have the benefit of that expert advice so sorely needed at this juncture, and also that it will cost considerably more now on account of adverse exchange. Notwithstanding I am so firmly convinced that it is in the city's interest to have it, that I will pay the whole cost in conformity with the offer, providing that the city does its part in cheerfully and promptly supplying the information asked for.

It is unfortunate for the ratepayers' association that importunity is their only recourse. They cannot get injunctions to prevent their trustees doing unwise things, no matter how detrimental it may be to their welfare. The closing of the proposed contract for the sale of the timber is not a matter of life or death. It can wait for, say, two or three months, until the report is obtained. The immediate important point is: Is it wise to remove the timber in question from the watershed? This could be learned by cable in a very short time. If not, that should end all negotiation on that score. It would be neither fair to the mortgagees or the ratepayers' association to persist in its removal. There is another important point involved in the proposed sale and that is that the price is too low, in view of the fact that it is free from royalty of which the council were in ignorance, as the ratepayers' association delegation can testify. It is now more fully apparent than ever that I was right in protesting and with others preventing its purchase over twenty-three years ago. I venture to submit that I am right again and prepared to spend my own money to prove it.

SAN DIEGO IS ART CENTRE

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Turpin
Return From South; Balboa
Park to Be Rebuilt

Impressed by the spread of the art movement in California, particularly in San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Turpin of "Villa Grazia," Rockland venue, have returned home after spending the winter in the south. San Diego to-day, they say, is one of the real art centres of the United States. Paintings, music, sculpture and architecture find true appreciation in the southern California city, where people are not merely listeners and critics, but are expressing themselves in a creative way, particularly in respect to music. An indication of the public interest in fine architecture is being shown in practical way. The beautifully designed, but temporary-purpose exhibition buildings in Balboa Park, erected two decades ago and approaching the stage when it would be necessary to raise them, are to be constructed in stone to the original design. This will be accomplished by able subscription and the citizens are solidly behind the scheme. Victoria is well known in southern California. Practically all the people there, and Mrs. Turpin met down south, are visited this city and speak enthusiastically about it.

JORDAN RIVER

Beryl Johnston was the guest of honor at a party given by her mother, Mrs. R. A. Johnston, on April 10, the occasion being her ninth birthday. A light supper was served to the young guests from a table centred with a vase of tulips. Those invited included Georgina and Lorraine Turcotte, Paddy Cox, Beverly Rough, Mary Ledingham and Lois and Beryl Johnston. Mrs. P. Turcotte and infant son have returned from Victoria. Mrs. McGregor, Victoria, is staying at Camp Two with her daughter, Mrs. A. Sjoberg. Mrs. Turcotte Sr. has returned to her home in Victoria after staying here for six weeks. The Jordan River Badminton Club held the final practice for the season on April 10.

Sheet Metal Code Drafted For B.C.

The Board of Industrial Relations at the Parliament Buildings has been supplied with a copy of a fair business code drafted by the Better Warm Air Heating, Ventilation and Sheet Metal Works Association, designed to eliminate unethical practices. The code, it is stated, has already been subscribed to by half those employed in the industry in Vancouver and has been circulated among others throughout the province for ratification. A clause designed to protect the public provides that only fully qualified members of the industry, with sufficient financial backing, will be admitted to the association.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHURCH SOCIETIES

The James Bay Y.P.S. produced one of its popular plays in the church yesterday evening, and an appreciative audience filled the hall. The play entitled "Miss Molly," was a comedy which brought forth wave after wave of laughter. The two outstanding characters were Pearl White, a colored lady, played by Miss Margaret Dwyer, and her colored boy friend, Joe, played by William McGillivray. These two parts were the main comedy lines in the whole play, and in spite of dialectical difficulties, left nothing to be desired. Bert Matcham gave a fine portrayal of a grouchy old woman-hater, Reginald Peters, while Miss Marjorie Andrews was equally good as his sister, Annie. The remaining parts, including the hard-boiled governess, Cissie Saunders, played by Miss Hilda McGillivray; Julian Hewitt, the "painter chap," played by Glen Deustad; "Miss Molly," played by Miss Margaret Fleming; and Lady Elusia Mison, played by Miss Dorothy Bishop, deserved much praise. Vocal solos and acts were rendered before the play and between the acts by Mrs. T. Southern and Miss Edna Dilworth, accompanied by Miss E. Schroeder.

Those who were selling dance tickets are asked to check them in to the president as soon as possible.

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A.

The monthly meeting of the executive committee of St. John's A.Y.P.A. was held in the guild-room of St. John's Church on Thursday evening. Plans for the A.Y.P.A. tennis club were discussed. The following members were elected to the committee: President, Jack Laver; vice-president, Phyllis Gale; secretary-treasurer, Sylvia Schindler. It was decided that the tennis committee would draw up a constitution and present it at the next weekly meeting. The young people have decided to visit the Protestant Orphanage on April 30, and an excellent programme has been arranged for the evening. The meeting next week will take the form of a business session and social combined, and all branch members are asked to attend.

Despite Price Rise Tea Still Most Economical Drink

For the past two years people in Canada have been enjoying the low prices for tea in a decade, but this has meant tremendous losses to growers who, to save their industry, have restricted tea exports and caused prices to advance. Tea packers, particularly those supplying very fine quality teas, have reluctantly been forced to increase prices.

BASKET TEAMS ENTERTAINED

Colwood, April 15.—Fittingly concluding the basketball season, the two Colwood teams, B and K (Colwood seniors) and Colwood intermediates were guests Saturday evening in Colwood Hall at an enjoyable banquet as the guests of the Colwood Hall committee. The committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. A. Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Piercy, Mrs. H. Parker, Messrs. E. Peatt and W. Bosworth.

In addition to the personnel of the teams, there were also present Mr. and Mrs. R. Jesse, the former representing the firm of Bruckman-Ker Milling Co. Ltd.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Quick, the former president of the Seaside and Suburban Basketball League; Percy Reeves, secretary of the league; and Rev. A. N. Acheson-Lyle.

A. Godfrey was chairman and briefly referred to the good fellowship that had always existed between the members of the teams. "Good Sportsmanship" was the subject of Rev. A. N. Acheson-Lyle's brief talk. On behalf of the teams, Bob McMurchy presented to R. W. Robinson a smoking stand, and referred to the important part Mr. Robinson played with regard to the teams' welfare. Red Martin, coach for the intermediates, also was the recipient of a gift. Mr. Robinson and Mr. Martin suitably replied.

On behalf of the parents, W. A. Walker referred to the enjoyment given by the games, and wished for great success in the future for the teams. LORD TENNYSON WED SATURDAY

Well-known Cricketer Married in Santa Barbara; Off to England

Associated Press
Santa Barbara, Cal., April 16.—Lord (Lionel Hallam) Tennyson and his bride, the former Mrs. Joseph W. Donner of Chicago, were headed east today, en route to England and Lord Tennyson's estate at Farrington, Freshwater, Isle of Wight.

The grandson of the great poet, Alfred Lord Tennyson, was married to the young society matron in a quiet ceremony here Saturday.

Lord Tennyson, forty-four, succeeded to the title in 1928. He was divorced in 1927 from his first wife, Clarissa Tennyson. Mrs. Donner, thirty, is the widow of the late Joseph W. Donner of Buffalo, N.Y.

Employment in Belgium continues to mount higher than a year ago.

CHILD PIANIST TO PLAY HERE

Eleven-year-old Marie Balagno to Give Recital April 20

Victoria is to have the rare opportunity of hearing a musical prodigy next week, when eleven-year-old Marie Balagno of Toronto, a member of the well-known musical family, will give a pianoforte recital at the Shrine auditorium on Friday evening, April 20.

This young artist, who was heard by a privileged few two years ago, has won acclaim from leading critics in the east and seems destined to go far in her chosen profession. The scope of her talents and the maturity of her playing may be judged from the calibre of the programme which she has chosen for her recital here. This will include:

Fantasia in C Minor Mozart
Toccata Beethoven
"The Lark" Glinka
Hungarian Witches Dance Macdowell
Rondo Capriccioso Mendelssohn
Scherzo Waltz Moszkowski
Serenade Moszkowski
Caprice Espagnol Moszkowski

The young pianist will be assisted by her uncle, William Balagno, violinist with the Seattle Symphony Orchestra, whose numbers will include "Spanish Dance" (Granados-Kreisler); "Minuet" (Porpora-Kreisler); "Evening Song" one of Mr. Balagno's own compositions, and the Boule arrangement of Debussy's "La Plus Que Lente." Mr. Balagno will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Audrey Wood.

Marie is the daughter of Charles P. Balagno, of Toronto, a gifted pianist who gave his daughter her first musical instruction at the early age of four and a half years. She early showed extraordinary musical precocity and has already won a Toronto Conservatory of Music gold medal.

As a Canadian genius who, it is felt, will in later years bring laurels to the country in which, up to the present, she has received the whole of her musical education, it is hoped that a capacity audience will greet her upon the occasion of her first bow to the Victoria public.

Your Baby and Mine

KEEP DIET BALANCED FOR THIN AND FAT CHILDREN

Both thin children and fat children have the nerves of the sensitive mother who wants them to be exactly right. The mother who attempts home dieting is unfortunately not always aware of the foods which aid in adding or reducing weight. She forgets that in all diets a well-balanced menu is essential, even though for the fat child the low caloric foods may be stressed, and for the thin one the high caloric group.

DON'T GAIN

Mrs. G. may be worrying herself unnecessarily in the fear that her six and one-half-year-old daughter is too thin. "My daughter weighs only forty-nine pounds. She does not care for vegetables, cream, butter or fatty foods. Although she likes all kinds of fruits she does not seem to increase in weight. Please publish a list of foods for her to eat."

The fatty foods and the sugars and starches are the high caloric foods. Vegetables and fruits belong to the low caloric group, though both kinds are included in a well-rounded diet. If the child has a personal sensitivity toward fatty foods, it is difficult to increase them, but it is possible to include more high caloric foods than she now takes.

Without knowledge of her height or general body build it is impossible to say whether she is a low weight. The weight of six-year-old children ranges from thirty-three to fifty-six pounds, their height from thirty-eight to fifty inches. The weight for seven-year-olds is from thirty-six to sixty-six pounds, their height from forty-three to fifty inches. Naturally the child's weight will accord with the height and a child six years old weighing thirty-three pounds would accord with the "shortest" height, which would be thirty-eight inches. Inheritance and body structure has much to do with placing a child in a specific weight-height group.

NILA C. COOK'S ROMANCE ENDS

Associated Press
New York, April 16.—Nila Cram Cook announced yesterday that she was divorcing her husband, Albert N. Hutchins, whom she wed on her arrival from India.

"Our separation," the former disciple of Mahatma Gandhi said, "is official. Hutchins left day before yesterday for Chicago. This is final."

Talking rapidly, Mrs. Hutchins stated: "In the middle of the ocean I did fall in love, but I knew even then that, out of his romantic element and setting, Hutchins would be lost. However, just to prove what I thought of social prejudices I promised to marry him."

"When I make a promise I'm willing to stake life itself on my word of honor. But the adjustment on land wrecked the romance of the sea."

She said Hutchins would try to get work in Chicago, either as a bellhop or a radio announcer. She said she would go to California to establish residence when her book "About India and What Not" is done.

Chicago, April 16 (Associated Press).—Nila Cram Cook's former cabin boy husband described their romance as the "oddest, strangest in history."

Arriving here early to-day from New York, Albert N. Hutchins expressed surprise his wife sought an annulment of their marriage.

"But an annulment can't be granted after two people have lived together as we did," he said. "To get a divorce, Nila would need grounds, which I do not intend to give, and anyway that would take six months at least."

SILVER TEA IS BIG SUCCESS

Daughters of Pity Hostesses at Delightful Affair at Nurses' Home

About 200 attended the delightful tea held at the Jubilee Nurses' Home on Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Daughters of Pity, the affair imparting a stimulus to this energetic group's splendid work on behalf of the children's ward of the hospital.

The lounge presented a most attractive appearance with its daintily appointed tea tables, centred with lilac, narcissi, roses, tulips and other flowers in fragrant profusion. The guests were welcomed by the reception committee, consisting of Miss Lena Mitchell, Miss L. Bauman, Miss Kathleen Roberts. Presiding at the lace-covered tea table, which had a floral centerpiece composed of pink tulips, ranunculus, and green candles, were Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. George Jay, Mrs. Hermann Robertson and Mrs. D. Leming.

Miss M. Tate convoked the tea arrangements, and among the helpers were the Misses Irene Edwards, Alison Chow, Marian Stevenson, Gladys Hoyt, Alma Hill, Veronica Stevenson and Gray.

A vivid note of color was introduced at the candy stall, where home-made candy was sold in flower-like containers. Miss Phyllis May had charge of this. At the receipt of custom was Miss Evelyn Tate.

The programme was of attractive diversity, among the numbers being the Wrencliff Instrumental Trio's performance of the Wieniawski "Legend," and Ruffa's "Cavatina"; vocal solos by Miss Edna Dilworth, "Pale Moon" (Logan), and "With Lilacs Sweet" (Branscombe), accompanied by Miss Phyllis Dilworth; Mrs. Harry Laabson, contralto, sang "Spring Has Come" (Maudie Valerie White), and "Fleeting Hour" (Dorothy Lee); Harry Parfit, "The Messenger" and "The Ringier." Mrs. C. C. Warn acted as accompanist with her usual artistry.

There were also several dances, including an Irish jig by Georgina Dowdall, Dorothy Graham, Gladys Harrison, Mary Doherty and Lois Russell; Highland fling and sword dance by Ina Robertson and Sadie Jamieson; lap dance by June Gibson and Yvonne Simpson, all pupils of the Violet Fowkes Studio. Miss Fowkes playing the pianoforte accompanied for some of these, and Miss Lillian Grant, medal piper, for the sword dance. Miss Kathleen Roberts convoked the entire programme.

Otter Point Relief Camp Holds Dance

A successful old time Scottish dance was held in Otter Point Hall Friday night, when the young men from the camp entertained residents from the surrounding districts. Capt. The residents of Otter Point aided with the refreshments and an enjoyable evening was spent.

ART WAR ON IN NEW YORK

New York, April 16.—A bit late but triumphant, the Society of Independent Artists entered New York's "art war" yesterday with roaring colors and the biggest exhibit it has had in four years.
 "No controversy with Rockefeller Centre," murmured several of the directors as they puttered about hanging pictures, but the hit of the show promises to be a painting of John D. Rockefeller Sr. and Diego Rivera shaking hands, each with the thumb to the nose. It is by Charles Goeller and is called "Reconciliation."
 As always, the independence show is full of virtue workers downing bloated capitalists, large pink nudes women holding starving babies, and topics of the day. This year the topics of the day are Hitler and the San Jose, Cal., lynchings. After pointing a finger at Einstein haloed by light is painted by M. Califano as "The Ignominy of the Twentieth Century."

Sister Mary's KITCHEN

HOW ABOUT SERVING RADISHES AT GRATIN OR IN SANDWICHES?

Many a housewife has lived to a ripe old age without discovering that you can do more with the crisp radish than serve it raw with celery and olives as an hors d'oeuvre.

Now that they come three bunches for a bargain, how about trying radish sandwiches on your card club; creamed radishes on the family and radish gratin on the next guest Papa brings home?

CONTAIN MINERALS

Minerals and ballast are the radish's contribution to food values, but its chief mission in the raw is to look pretty on the table and tempt the appetite. The small red ones are particularly colorful—breakfast radishes they are called for no adequate reason and the French eat them with butter, which makes such a mess as it sounds! There is also a long red variety, rather inclined to woodiness, a round pithy and a long white one, which is the longest unless plucked while extremely young and tender.

Sandwiches are best made with the white radish, although the red may be used. Wash the radishes with fish salad, these sandwiches add zest to a party menu.

Cut crisp, well-washed radishes in thin slices and arrange them on thin slices of buttered bread. Sprinkle lightly with salt, cover with another thin slice of buttered bread and seal.

Creamed radishes done like creamed carrots are both good and pretty, radishes au gratin are even better. Wash the radishes, cut them in a fresh vegetable shortage in the late spring and early summer will find these suggestions worth keeping in mind.

RADISHES AT GRATIN

Three cups round red radishes, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1/4 cup milk, 1/4 cup water in which radishes were parboiled, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 4 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs.

Wash radishes carefully and cut off root and stem. Cook in boiling salted water for fifteen minutes. Drain from water, saving 4 table-spoonsful for sauce. Put radishes into a buttered baking dish and cover with sauce made with butter and flour cooked together with milk and radish water added. Sprinkle top with crumbs and grated cheese and bake moderately hot oven for twenty minutes to melt the cheese and brown the top. Serve from baking dish.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Orange juice, cereal, cream, crisp bacon, graham muffins, milk, coffee.
 Luncheon: Surprise baked potatoes, hearts of celery, toasted muffins, black cherries and bananas in fifteen minutes.
 Dinner: Ham loaf, twice baked sweet potatoes, radishes au gratin, cabbage, tomato sauce, cold-fashioned bread pudding with hard sauce, milk, coffee.

The regular Tuesday meeting of the Y.P.B.U. was held in the church class-room. In the absence of the president, Miss Mabel Cook, through sickness, the vice-president, Alex Cochrane, was in the chair. After the Scripture reading by Miss Ruth Johnson arrangements were made for an open social early in the month.

HOROSCOPE

The stars incline, but do not compel.

TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1934

Adverse planetary aspects appear to dominate today, according to astrology. It is a day for cautious and well-considered action.

This is an auspicious day for bankers and financial managers, who should be helpful and co-operative in dealing with business men and women.

If you are signing contracts and leases, lawyers are subject to planetary influences that should make their advice more than usually trustworthy.

In the reform movements of the summer bar associations are to be prominent in efforts to keep the legal profession free from unworthy members. A sensational case will open special interest in the west.

Women still will be much in the background at this time; they will benefit most severely disciplining themselves in practical affairs. The period in which feminine lure has been thought most desirable has passed. A new culture will win over beauty culture.

Ceologists and geologists now come under a beneficial planetary government. The summer is to offer extraordinary changes of much interest. Through the excavations for a great canal or a new mine discoveries of minerals are in aid to national wealth, it is unromanticated.

Through the summer achievements above and beneath the surface of the earth may surpass those hitherto recorded in history. Persons whose birthdate it is the augury of a year of happy advancement. Courtesies for the old and good news for the old are indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be gifted in many ways. Subject of this sign are on the cusp and partake of the traits of Taurus as well as Aries, combining leadership with scholarship. Samuel Austin Alcott, bibliographer, was born on this day, 1814. Others who have celebrated it at a birthday include William Gilmore Simms, novelist, 1866; William F. Davidge, actor, 1814; Henry Hughes, Welsh poet, 1622.

Dorothy Dix

Shall We Ignore Our Neighbor's Talk or Walk Chalkline Indicated By It?—Neither, Says Dorothy Dix, But Without Defying the Conventions, Let Us Live Our Own Life!

ONE OF the most difficult problems in life that we have to solve is how much we should be influenced by the opinions of others. It is equally dangerous either to flout them or to be dominated by them, for if we totally disregard them we are ostracized, and if we cringe before them we become enslaved.

It is not too much to assert that "THEY SAY" is the most powerful influence in the world. It makes and breaks people. It is fame and disgrace. No individual can be so upright in character, so pure of heart, so innocent in intention as to safely ignore the tongues of the community in which he or she lives.

A man, for instance, may have only the most paternal instinct and a desire to nourish a worthy and hard-working little girl, but if he is seen lunching with his pretty platinum blonde stenographer every day, and if he takes her home in his car every evening, nothing on earth can save him from getting the reputation of being a philanderer and knowing how to pick 'em. No body, least of all his wife, will believe that his middle name is Joseph and not Don Juan.

If a married woman steps out evenings with a handsome stranger while her husband stays at home and tends the baby, and if she is seen winning and dining and dancing at night clubs with other men, her character furnishes forth the funeral baked meats for the next gossip fest, and the women who know her begin to look at her slantwise and forget to ask her when they have their next party. It avails her nothing that the men she has been playing about with were childhood friends who regard her as a sister and that her husband urged her to go out with them because she needed a little recreation that he couldn't afford to give her.

And if a girl goes off on a week-end with a man, no matter if she is as chaste as ice and pure as snow and he a Galahad, nor how platonic their relationship was, not all the king's horses nor all the king's men can put her reputation together again.

The moral of which, of course, is that it is not enough to be good. We have to look good, and if we desire to be respected we have to have the O.K. of those who know us. None of us can afford to snap our fingers in the face of Mrs. Grundy, and as long as our happiness and our prosperity depends upon our neighbors' good opinions of us we must needs consider what "THEY SAY."

But if we are fools to think we can defy what other people say about us, we are still greater fools to let them rule us. Nothing is more disastrous. Nor are there any more cringing cowards than those men and women whose whole existence is dominated by the spectre of gossip and who are driven into doing things that they do not wish to do and that they know to be a fatal thing to do by the abject fear of what people will say.

All of us know people who are living on a nerve-breaking strain of anxiety trying to keep up a pretence of prosperity who would gladly relax and give up attempting to ape rich people if they were not so afraid of what people would say. All of us know men who are failures in professions for which they have no talent who would like to give them up and be the carpenters nature intended them to be if it wasn't for what people would say.

All of us know half-starved women who could make good livings for themselves taking in boarders or sewing, and who would enjoy doing so, but who would rather perish with cold and hunger than face what people would say. We know husbands and wives who quarrel who would part and live in peace if it wasn't for what people would say. We know the poor victims wouldn't rather be burnt at the stake than be pricked by a few tongues.

So the part of wisdom seems to be to find the golden mean between defying public opinion and groveling before it, and this can best be done by adopting David Crockett's motto: "Be sure you are right, then go ahead."

For of one thing we may all be utterly sure: We and our affairs are going to be discussed by those who know us. We are going to be gossiped about, even as we gossip about others. We are going to be criticized, just as we criticize our friends and acquaintances.

There is no possibility of escaping that, not even by death. For there is no corpse but that is dragged forth from its grave for a thousand autopsies. And this being the case, and we furnishing their favorite topic to our neighbors and foraging their most enjoyable indoor sport, and we retailing in kind, it behooves us to take it in a sporting spirit. Being neither unduly uplifted nor cast down by it.

In a word, we should walk circumspectly so as to furnish others with as little cause as possible for their criticisms, but conscious of treading the straight and narrow path we should march boldly on our own way, without giving ear to what "THEY SAY."

We should be like the old Dutch sea captain, suspected of piracy, who carved above the lintel of his fine front door: "THEY SAY, THEY WILL SAY. LET THEM BE SAYING." DOROTHY DIX.

THE Lone Wolf's Son

By Louis Joseph Vance

Lanyard smiled amusedly. "But really! You alarm me."

"Yeah, I know-you scare awfully easy. But they don't know you're one hard guy to tackle. Anyway, you used to be before you put ten years of living soft behind you."

"I think you will find I still can give a good account of myself-if, that is, these gentry."

"Well, if you've got any idea that either Jack-knife or Bagdad Archie is thinking of making passes at you in person, you're crazy. That sort of thing ain't being done by the swell mob of the new school. Chances are, if anything does come of this, you'll find yourself up against some bird you never lapped before. So don't count too much on being able to think quick as you can, I wouldn't be where I am to-day, sweating to keep level with my expenses."

"First you frighten me, then you flatter me! I am confused."

"No mean it. As a thinker I'm a plug," Crane confessed. "Only way I ever get anything is by sinking the teeth in and hanging on till something gives."

"That reminds me: you haven't answered my question yet."

"Question?"

"The one you ducked at the start-off-when I asked what come over you to make you feel you had a call to rescue that punk from the clutches of tin horns who weren't doing a thing, only trying to pick up a piece of pocket money."

"At this Lanyard gave a slow "Ah!" of admiration. "And you ask me to believe you slow witted!"

"I don't call it a great stunt to take notice when you don't run true to form-man who can mind his own business as well as you can."

"All the same," Lanyard announced. "It will amuse me more to see how long it takes you to ferret out my motive unassisted."

And with a laughing shake of his head, Lanyard took himself off. He wasn't ready to publish the relationship to the Maurice Party of the passenger list before he had had another talk with the boy and settled on some tale to account for his manifest prosperity. And although any tale would serve as long as both father and son told it, there was no time to be lost, with Crane openly sniffing already at their secret.

But Maurice, when again sighted from a distance, if still dancing attendance on Penno Crozier, was no longer alone with her. A knot of young folk had formed round her deck chair, and the boy seemed to be so high in their favor already that the father once more forbore from disturbing him.

Nothing could be more calculated to prosper the fond paternal schemes. Indeed, than such unexceptional associations.

Lanyard accordingly cut through to the port deck, emerging from a thwart-ship passageway just in time to meet Messrs. Jack-knife Robinson and English Archie Barker strolling merrily aft, and to be cut dead by them.

For all of Crane's warning, the circumstance left no more immediate impression than that a casual glance aft from the forward companionway entrance marked the saturnine Jack-knife person all along by the rail and English Archie nowhere visible.

Perhaps because the sea wind was freshening, with the sea beginning to break out whitecaps, Lanyard found the customary quota of ladies, assorted as to ages and conditions but all of one familiar frame of mind, tritely inscribing postcards, supplied gratis by the steamship, to presumably envious friends at home. And when, after an hour or so, the long roar of the whistle drove in through his muffling concentration the news that it was noon, the abstracted eyes which the man lifted saw the room otherwise empty.

That it could conceivably matter how long he had been sitting there alone naturally never entered Lanyard's head.

He bent again to his letter and had pried a lively pen for perhaps fifteen minutes more when a voice pleasantly toned said at his elbow: "So this is where you've been hiding! Maurice and I were looking all over!"

The reflection which leaped to his mind-"Maurice already, eh?"-and the normal association of ideas, caused Lanyard, as he rose, involuntarily to say aloud: "Penno!" To which he was quick to add: "I beg your pardon."

"No, no," the girl gaily insisted. "I like it. M. Lanyard, from you."

"It's such an odd name and so delightful, so utterly the only name for you, one finds it far from easy to think of you in a style more formal."

"And anyway it would be silly-wouldn't it-to 'mademoiselle' or 'miss' a girl? Please never call me anything but Penno-I shall feel so much more at ease with you. And do sit down. I'm dying to talk."

When Lanyard had drawn up another chair he sat down, and in grave good nature prompted:

"About-"

"But-of course!-about your son."

"You are getting on with your sleep of his peace of mind, aren't you?" Lanyard fenced to cover a disordered moment. "Considering that you have him at the stage already where he can't wait to tell you all his secrets."

"I don't deserve the credit, really," the girl had her mother's trick of dimpling on those in her good graces. "It wasn't my rude trooper's wootie that made the lad tell all-it was because he's so proud of you, he just had to tell someone or bust."

"But had the good taste to choose you."

"Oh, I don't say he would have been so ready if I hadn't made eyes at him! But his pride in you was the compelling motive, really."

"You make me very happy, Penno. It's so marvellously romantic, your finding each other like this. And when I think I had something to do with it, that it was I who first drew your attention to him-"

"Yes," Lanyard thoughtfully assented. "It is true. I do owe you that."

To undeceive her was, of course, not to be thought of. Lanyard for all that would have been glad to know how much, and in what detail, Maurice had told the girl. Beneath the lightness of Penno's manner there were intimations of an entente which he found disturbing.

"And how proud you must be of him, that he not only came through an experience which would have destroyed any ordinary boy but came through a son you needn't be ashamed to own!"

"He is fortunate to have you think so well of him, Penno. Maurice then, bears out the diagnosis of his geste you made before you knew him?"

"I said he was, like you, dangerous-but somehow sweet, didn't I?" she played teasing eyes in a pause of mock uncertainty. "Well, if you must know, I find him far less dangerous than he thinks he is and far sweeter than he wants to be thought. I mean-very much a man; that is to say, at heart a child."

Lanyard gave a little quiet laugh. "If I hadn't lived so long in this world I might be more astonished. But I have learned that there are dangers in the cradle with an insight into our hearts that is, frankly, terrifying."

"Nonsense. That all men are children is what every woman knows."

"And you think Maurice will be a child in your hands? That you won't need five days more to make him call you his mother?"

Uncle Wiggily In a Shower

By HOWARD E. GARRIS

Uncle Wiggily was very glad it was now the month of April. The jolly old rabbit gentleman loved to be out in a rain shower with his trusty umbrella and he knew that it rains very often in April.

"My umbrella likes to be out in the rain, also," said Uncle Wiggily to his wife, when she said she thought he was going out in showers too often. "My umbrella likes rain as much as I do, so we both have much pleasure. And there is such good cheer on my umbrella that its ribs never get wet. They keep nice and dry."

Thus it came about that during these April days Uncle Wiggily scarcely went adventuring at all. He was always on the watch for a rain shower, so that he might take his umbrella and stand under it.

"I love to hear the patter of the raindrops on my umbrella," said the rabbit gentleman, Uncle Wiggily, who so jolly crazy about showers that if he could find none near his bungalow stump bungalow he would hop for the nearest one even if it were a mile away.

"Any time you see a shower near your house, and there is none near my bungalow, Mr. Longears used to say, 'Just call me up on the telephone and I'll hop right over with my umbrella.'"

Thus it came about that several times in the day, when Uncle Wiggily was sitting at home in his bungalow, wishing the rain clouds would blow up, his telephone would ring and a voice would say:

"This is Twistytail, your fat pig friend. There is a shower blowing up near my house. Come on over and get wet."

"It'll be right there," the rabbit gentleman would say, and away he would hop with his umbrella as fast as could be.

Or it might happen that Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear gentleman, would peer out of his ice cave and see a shower on the hill near him. Then Mr. Whitewash would call Uncle Wiggily up on the telephone and ask:

"Is there a shower at your bungalow, Wiggily?"

"No, I am sorry to say there isn't," the rabbit gentleman would answer. "Well, there's one near my ice cave. Mr. Whitewash would telephone. 'Come over and get wet.'"

And over Uncle Wiggily would hop. All his friends knew how jolly crazy he was about showers, and every time they could tell him where he could find one.

Now it happened that the Fox and the Bob Cat heard about this queer habit of Uncle Wiggily's in always wanting to be out in April showers. So one day, when the Bob Cat came to visit the Fox, the Bad Chap with the ally little tail mewed and said:

"Let's give Uncle Wiggily a shower."

"Give him a shower! What do you mean?" asked the Fox. "We can't make it if whenever we want to. Don't be silly!"

"I'm not silly," purred the Bob Cat. "I don't mean a rain shower."

"What kind, then?" asked the Fox. "A shower of sticks and stones that will break his bones," snarled the Bob Cat. "We can knock him down with a shower of stones and catch him."

"Once more, I say, don't be silly!" laughed the Fox. "You know we can never get close enough to Uncle Wiggily to shower him with sticks and stones. He runs as soon as he sees us. Silly!"

"He won't get a chance to run, this time," said the Bob Cat. "Listen. You know Uncle Wiggily has his friends telephone him whenever there is a shower near their houses and when there is none near his bungalow. Then the funny rabbit takes his umbrella and runs quickly to stand in the shower."

"Well, what else?" asked the Fox. "As the Bob Cat sat down on his ally little tail so his friend wouldn't make fun of it. "Go on!"

"This is what we'll do," whispered the Bob Cat. "We'll call Uncle Wiggily on the telephone. We'll make our voices sound like Mr. Twistytail or Uncle Butter's and we'll tell Uncle Wiggily it is raining out this way in the woods. He'll run here and before he finds out it isn't raining we'll shower him with sticks and stones from this cave and we'll have him. How's that for a trick?"

"Not so bad," barked the Fox. "It's worth trying. But I don't believe we can make our voices sound like Mr. Twistytail or Uncle Butter's."

"Yes we can," said the Bob Cat. "We'll practice and we can talk hoarse-like, as if we had colds. If Uncle Wiggily thinks there is something funny about either of our voices, we'll say it's a cold."

"All right," said the Fox. "So the two Bad Chaps got ready to play the trick on Uncle Wiggily. How it turned out you shall hear in the story tomorrow, which will be about Uncle Wiggily and the trick. And I hope the gas store doesn't give the rubber doll a pin cushion for a pillow or the poor thing will be too stuck up to speak to the roller skates."

League Baseball Clubs Usher In Season To-morrow

THE SPORTS ERROR

TWO SCHOOLBOY chums who started their careers on the ice ponds of Winnipeg, and who dreamed of major league hockey careers fifteen years ago, have this year realized their ambition in the Stanley Cup series which wound up at Chicago recently with the Black Hawks defeating Detroit Red Wings to win the coveted trophy three games to one.

Wilfred Cude, the Detroit ace, and Charlie Gardiner, the Chicago veteran and captain of the team, were in opposite nets.

Long before Cude was big enough to be a member of the beginners' team, representing the old Victoria School, Winnipeg, he used to sit out in zero weather and watch his older and bigger pal in the "Midget" goal. But let Gardiner tell it:

"Cude was so little then that none of us thought he'd be a hockey player," Gardiner recalled. "He used to watch us draw up in a big red sweater and toque."

"He lived near my place over on Williams Street and for years he went back and forth to school together. Both of us used to worry about his size. He wanted to gain enough weight to play on the Midgets."

"But in a couple of years, when I had moved up into the juvenile league, they organized a 'paperweight' team and Cude got in. Even then he was so little it seemed a hard shot would knock him down. But Cude was tough. He showed that the first time he 'caught' a puck with part of his face."

"He was cut pretty bad, but came right back on the job as soon as a bandage was applied. He's been that way ever since."

Gardiner, who recently was awarded the Georges Vezina Trophy, which annually goes to the league's best goalie, unconsciously stroked a bandage on his own head covering a wound which recently required seven stitches to close.

"By the time I was playing intermediate hockey Cude had realized his ambition and was the regular Midget goalie," the Black Hawk goalie continued. "But then I had a problem. I came out of the nets and started to play defence, but was told that 'Well there we were. Cude worrying about his weight and me about my speed. Cude put on weight but never did anything. He saw him frequently at practice and games when playing in the senior league. Cude never missed seeing his chum in action."

Which probably is the reason for the similarity of style used by the two goalies. Gardiner and Cude slide around much the same.

"That is, he used to," Gardiner said, "but this year against the Red Wings I haven't been sliding so much as I have been picking the puck out of the nets. And 'Wif' Cude has helped to make the Wings tough. He's a great little guy and a great little goalie. I rate him the best in our league—and mean it."

"Gee, we used to dream about playing some time in the big league but we never thought we'd be stacked up against each other for a world's championship. He made it tough for us—but I'm glad he was in there. The 'kid' sort of has me on the post."

And that sentiment is shared by many of hockey's experts. Distinguished Canadian observers, after watching Cude's sensational work in Toronto during the last playoffs, said "there isn't another goalie in the league who can compare with Cude unless it's Gardiner of the Black Hawks." Some of the experts frankly stated that Cude was playing superior hockey during the latter part of the season.

Gardiner, in his boyhood, set the pace for his chum. He was the leader. Cude learned from him by watching and listening. Gardiner joined the Black Hawks eleven years ago. Cude went back into the National League a few months ago to relieve the injured John Ross Roach. Several seasons ago he was with Philadelphia in the same circuit, but went back to the minors when Philadelphia quit the league.

Matched against the league's outstanding net minder—his old tutor and chum, Cude tried to set the pace. Maybe he'll do it next year with the same abandon, enthusiasm and dash that helped to sweep the Wings so near to the top of the hockey heap.

Ottawa, scene of many a historic struggle and famous for years as a great hockey centre, has passed out of the National League and the franchise will be operated in another city, probably St. Louis, when the next campaign gets under way. Owners of the Senators lost $60,000 during the last two years and they are convinced that the capital lacks a large enough population to make the investment a paying one.

Frank Ahearn, one of the best sportsmen in the Dominion, had been hopeful that better days were in the offing and that his team would eventually gain support, but figures don't lie, and now with deep regret the decision has been made that the colorful Senators must depart for other fields.

Champion Giants Will Be At Home To Philadelphia

New York's World Title-holders Open Campaign With Weakened Line-up

To-day's Preview Game Postponed

By Hugh S. Fullerton
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, April 16.—Sixteen major league baseball clubs, all of them enveloped in a brand new aura of optimism, will give the 1934 season its big send-off to-morrow, following postponement on account of rain, of to-day's preview at Washington between the Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

On every side only cheerful words are heard about the year's prospects. Players of a dozen clubs say to look for them in the world series; less exuberant managers predict they will be at least close to the top; Club owners already have their ears cocked to hear the turnstiles clocking at a merrier rate, and it is a faint-hearted fan who won't claim the pennant, world championship and everything in sight for his favorite club.

The pennant races in both leagues figure to be close. The swaps and purchases of the busy off-season bring a lot of new faces to attract the fans. The further strengthening of the Red Sox and the new deal at Cincinnati under the ownership of Powell Crossley figure to bring better balance in the standings, while the first Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania may help the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh clubs recoup their losses of recent years.

FIVE NEW MANAGERS:
Five teams approach the season under new management. The American League Mickey Cochrane is expected to lift Detroit's Tigers into a contending position and Bucky Harris guides the New York Yankees. Stengel of Brooklyn, Jimmy Wilson of Philadelphia and Bob O'Farrell of Cincinnati are the National League's new pilots.

The 1933 pennant winners, the New York Giants and Washington Senators, have been installed as pre-season favorites to repeat, but recent Cude campaign with Gus Mancuso and Hughey Critz still on the sidelines and with their hitting and pitching both below par.

The Red Sox and Senators jump to Boston to start things off there to-morrow. The other opening games are New York at Philadelphia, St. Louis at Cleveland and Detroit at Chicago. The American League few in Philadelphia at New York, Boston at Brooklyn, Chicago at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at St. Louis in the National.

The world champion Giants have maintained their place as favorites despite their poor showing in exhibition games. And "Wif" Cude has helped to make the Wings tough. He's a great little guy and a great little goalie. I rate him the best in our league—and mean it."

"Gee, we used to dream about playing some time in the big league but we never thought we'd be stacked up against each other for a world's championship. He made it tough for us—but I'm glad he was in there. The 'kid' sort of has me on the post."

For several years Ahearn and his associates tried to make ends meet financially by selling the services of star players, but such deals cannot save the situation now, and the only way to regain money that has been lost and protect the Auditorium shareholders is to operate the franchise in a large city which possesses a satisfactory rink. This St. Louis can do, and it is likely that the National League will sanction the trans-

Regret, Famous Filly, Is Dead

Lexington, Ky., April 16.—Regret, only filly ever to win the Kentucky Derby, is dead of an internal hemorrhage at the farm of her owner, C. V. Whitney. She was twenty-two years old and her victory in the Derby came in 1915 when she defeated Pebbles and Sharpshooter and thirteen other starters.

THREE SWIM MARKS MADE

Eleanor H. Jarrett, Katherine Rawls and Jack Medina Set World Records

Chicago, April 16.—Out of a bombardment that shattered three world records and threatened many others, two famous swimmers, Eleanor H. Jarrett, Homestead, Pa., and sixteen-year-old Katherine Rawls, Miami Beach, yesterday were crowned queens of United States indoor swimming. Each girl piled up two firsts and a second to outscore the fastest and more versatile stars and tie each other for the individual championships.

Miss Jarrett, upset in her defence of the 100-yard freestyle on the first night of the meet, came back to keep her title in the 200 and 500-yard tests. Miss Rawls swept to titles in the 300-yard medley and the final 100-yard freestyle in addition to finishing second in high board diving.

BREAKS WORLD MARK
The thrill Saturday night of the four-day championship trials was supplied by Eleanor H. Jarrett, New York. Mrs. Jarrett made one start in the meet and came through by shattering her own world record time of 1:16.6 in the 100-yard backstroke, swimming the distance in 1:10.4. She needed the record time, Mrs. Jarrett's time was 1:10.4. She needed the record time, Mrs. Jarrett's time was 1:10.4.

Miss Rawls was another record-breaker during the final bombardment, shattering her own world mark in the 300-yard medley in 4:19.2. The other world mark to fall was slipped by Jack Medina, nineteen-year-old University of Washington sophomore who churned the 400 metres in 4:43.2 in addition to shattering the 550, 600, 700, and 800-yard freestyle.

ROYAL OAK IN CUP VICTORY

Defeat James Island 3 to 2 to Capture Lower Island Cup For Third Time

Scoring all of their goals in the first half when they had a decided edge in the play, Royal Oak junior soccer eleven defeated James Island, 3 to 2, in the Lower Island Cup final at Heywood Avenue Saturday afternoon. The victory is the third straight for James Island in the final of this series.

With George Payne, Stoffer and Hodgson finding the net, Royal Oak retired for the rest interval with a 3 to 0 score in their favor. However, with the resumption of play James Island took the upper hand and after a number of dangerous attacks, Royal Oak scored. Stoffer's marker shortly after put the Islanders right in the fight, but try as they would they could not net the equalizer.

Scotty McKay refereed. The teams follow: Royal Oak—W. Robbins, Halkett, Griffin, Gibson, Moore, G. Robbins, G. Payne, J. Payne, Stoffer, Barnswell and Hodgson. James Island—S. Cowden, Roper, Thomson, Banks, Dixon, Rivers, Nelson, F. Robertson, W. Cowden, Bond and E. Robertson.

Burnside Lawn Bowlers Active

With four rinks occupied, the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club presented a busy scene Saturday afternoon as players and their wives started play in what promises to be another successful season. Some interesting matches were played, with competition of the keenest kind prevailing.

Club competitions will commence on Thursday, April 26, when the first evening game under lights will be played, with men and women members participating.

English Ruggers Win Over France

Paris, April 16.—England defeated France at rugby by 39 to 21 at the Buffalo Stadium here yesterday. By half-time the English team had piled up a lead of 15 to 13.

Canadian Girls Win U.S. Track Honors

Capture Relay, Fifty-metre Hurdles and Sprint For Novices in U.S. Championship Meet; Stella Walsh Betters Own World Mark

Brooklyn, April 16.—A group of Canadian girl athletes, having concluded one of the most successful attacks of Dominion lassies on United States amateur Athletic Union championships, rode merrily homeward to-day.

In their kitbags they had tucked away medals emblematic of the American 400 metre relay title, fifty metre hurdles and the fifty metre run for novices. The girls from over the border, sporting the colors of the Laurel A.C. of Toronto, shone brightly in Saturday night's championship meet that saw two world marks shattered as some 2,000 hardy track and field fans roared their approval. Besides their first place medals, the Canadians carried home second place awards in the fifty-metre dash and team competition.

Stella Walsh, Poland's powerful Olympic sprint champion, rated the fastest woman runner in the world, lowered her own 300 metre record of 38.2 to 36.2 seconds. Rena McDonald of Boston, a member of the United States Olympic team of 1928, tossed the eight-pound shot 40 feet 11 inches to shatter her own previous mark of 39 feet 3 1/2 inches.

PEDEN-AUDY ARE IN LEAD

Montreal, April 16.—Torchy Peden, Victoria, C.C., and his blond partner, Jules Audy, Montreal, were leading Montreal's tenth six-day bicycle race to-day.

With thirty sprint points to their credit, Peden and Audy were leading Alfred Letourner, France, and Henri LePage, Montreal, who had the same mileage but only twenty points.

Interpersed with spills, wild jamming broke out, during the second hour of the race, with Peden and Audy breaking to the front and stalling off other contenders.

Standings follow:
Peden-Audy 140 9 30
Letourner-LePage 140 9 40

Kerrisdale Wins Intercity Match

Defeats Victoria Soccer Eleven 2 to 0 in Poor Exhibition; Two Kerrisdale Players Banished By Referee in First Half

Turning in their most miserable performance of the season, Victoria United went down to a 2 to 0 defeat Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Park at the hands of a superior Kerrisdale eleven in an Intercity Football League fixture. Well over 1,000 fans journeyed to the enclosure in hopes of witnessing a good exhibition, but when the field out of the park gates at the conclusion of the match they were a sadly disappointed Victoria soccer public. What gave promise in the early stages of the initial half of becoming an interesting match was spoiled by the poor decisions of the referee, and when minutes before the rest interval Chris Rothwell, centre forward, and the clever Corlett, flashy right-winger of the Kerrisdale eleven, were banished by Referee Saunders, the fans may just as well have left the stands at this point as the game was completely ruined.

From the very first blast of the referee's whistle the bustling and aggressive Rothwell, Kerrisdale centre forward, was a marked man. He was bumped around at every opportunity by the Victoria backs: Fred Gibbons and Sammy Esler, and never complained, but when he started to retaliate, Referee Saunders issued a warning to the visiting centre forward, apparently ignoring the rough tactics of the Victoria fullbacks.

REACHES CLIMAX
The climax came when Rothwell rushed De Costa during a heavy attack on the Victoria United citadel and went in with his left foot up, apparently intent on recovering the ball. Play stopped instantly and Referee Saunders ordered the Kerrisdale centre forward from the field for dangerous tactics. Kerrisdale players swarmed around the referee and Corlett, skipper of the visitors, questioned the decision. The visiting management joined in the argument, and what was said will probably never be known, but the whole business ended with Corlett and Rothwell leaving the field and Kerrisdale forced to finish the match with nine players.

Displaying the better football, Kerrisdale were full value for their 2 to 0 victory, both markers being scored in the initial half. Purcell to play with nine men in the second session, the visitors played great defensive football and successfully staved off all attacks by a weak and ineffective Victoria United front line. Campbell and Brady, Kerrisdale fullbacks, defended their citadel in great style, while Shimmin, their goalie, gave a finished display, particularly in the second half when he pulled off some sensational saves.

It is seldom that home town fans cheer for the visitors, but Saturday afternoon when Kerrisdale were playing with only nine men in the second half, they had a sympathetic following in Victoria's soccer public.

CORLETT SCORES
Ten minutes after the commencement of the game Kerrisdale went into the lead, when the clever Corlett, patrolling the right line, scored, beating Gibbons, Victoria United back, who came out to meet him, Corlett moved in fast to get inside the penalty area and planted a well-placed drive in the far corner of the net.

Going off the offensive from the centre, Robinson tested Shimmin with a long shot, and then Stewart skied a first time drive over the crossbar. Mike Wagland, playing left wing for Victoria, was crossing nicely, but more often than not the opposing back steps were called on Shimmin, Victoria and these chances were wasted.

Sweeping down on the Victoria net, Rothwell executed a clever footy work, and passed to Wilkinson, but Ronnie Williams closed in fast and literally took the ball from the Kerrisdale player's toe.

Still kicking, Kerrisdale forced two corners, both of which were cleared. Victoria United were given a free kick when Rothwell was pulled up for charging De Costa, and minutes later steps were called on Shimmin, Kerrisdale goalie.

SCORE ON PENALTY
Kerrisdale returned play to the Victoria end of the field, Rothwell, Kerrisdale centre forward, was moving in fast when he was fouled by Gibbons. Minutes later the visiting centre forward was fouled heavily by Gibbons in the penalty area and a spot kick awarded the visitors. H. Hunter took the kick and sagged the rigging behind De Costa with a bullet drive. With Kerrisdale still applying the pressure, Richards lifted the ball over the framework at close range, while Corlett's hard drive was deflected for a corner. Rothwell, closing in fast on the play, was warned by the referee when he tried to knock the ball into the net while charging De Costa.

ORDERED FROM FIELD
It was immediately following this play that Rothwell was ordered from the field by the referee for dangerous play. Tricking Gibbons, the bustling Kerrisdale centre forward rushed De Costa with his left foot up, while the Victoria goalie was in the act of saving, and play was halted while Rothwell was ordered from the field. Corlett was also ordered to the sidelines for questioning the referee's decision and the visitors were left with nine men three minutes from the end of the first half.

Replay Ordered By Soccer Head

Sanich Thistles and Victoria West must replay their protest game of some months ago, British Columbia Football Commission has ruled, it was learned here to-day. The game in question was won by the Sanich Thistles by a 1 to 0 score. Victoria West management protested on the grounds that the Thistles had broken the substitute rule by allowing a player who was substituted for, to return to the field of play. The local committee held the West and took two from the Sanich Thistles, and the British Columbia moguls upheld the Thistles and ordered the game replayed. The Sanich club has also been fined $5 by provincial body for the infringement of the substitute rule.

Playing in defence of her title, Mrs. E. Jackson captured medal honors in the quality round of the women's championship of the Uplands Golf C Saturday when she toured eighteen-hole course in 85 strokes in front of her near rival.

Catching a 98 for the lay-out, Mary MacKenzie finished second. Ellis shot a 99 to gain third, and was the only other player to finish under the century mark. Garrett and Miss Wolfenden will off for the final position in championship flight.

In the first round of match Mrs. E. Jackson has been defeated by Mrs. Boyd.

Relegation Fight Is Soccer Feature

English and Scottish First Division Clubs in Great Scramble to Retain Positions; Newcastle United and Sheffield United Appear Doomed

Canadian Press

London, April 16.—With the Arsenal almost assured of another championship—they hold a four-point lead in the first division over Huddersfield with four matches to go—interest today centred in the thrilling struggles going on to avoid relegation in the English Football League.

Such famous and proud clubs as Newcastle United and Sheffield United seem doomed to go down to the second division. The standing at the bottom of the table is this way: Liverpool has thirty-four points and two matches; Chelsea, thirty-three and four more; Birmingham, thirty-two and three more; Newcastle, thirty-two and two more; Sheffield United, twenty-eight and three more. The latter club's position is almost hopeless.

The Arsenal have proved themselves the best team of the year. Their ability was emphasized Saturday when, despite the fact three of their best men were playing a fine game for England at Wembley, they traveled to Liverpool and won against a team battling desperately to avoid relegation. The Gunners came out on top by a 3 to 2 score.

BEASLEY SCORES

Arsenal were cleverer and quicker on the ball at Liverpool. Beasley put them in front after twelve minutes on a header that went in after hitting the crossbar. Wilson of Arsenal made a great save from Hanson and then Hulme, getting a pass from James, went around Riley, who was drawn out of the Liverpool net, and tapped the ball into the empty goal.

Wright of Liverpool reduced the margin early in the second half, but Hulme walked in the net with the ball from Beasley's centre to make it 3 to 1. Liverpool fought hard in the closing minutes and Hodgson scored. Two more shots hit the uprights.

Huddersfield, who still have a chance to beat Arsenal, banged another nail into Newcastle's coffin Saturday, beating them 4 to 1. Jack Smith scored twice before the interval and afterwards Bott scored twice, and Williams got a fourth before Harry Williams got a counter for the visitors.

GREAT RECOVERY

Chelsea continued their spectacular recovery from the bottom of the table. They won the fifth match in succession when they beat Everton 3 to 0. Mills and Gibson scored.

Grimsby Town, who were overhauled by 3 to 1, are now ten points in front of the second division, and all the fighting is between the clubs wanting to go up to the first division with the Fishermen. Bradford beat Swansea and Bolton defeated Notts County to remain on even terms in the matter of points, each with three games left. Only a point further back is Preston North End, beaten by Bury on Saturday.

A similar struggle is going on at the other end of the division, where Lincoln City is definitely headed for relegation and at least five clubs are bunched along with them in the danger zone. These include both Nottingham clubs, Swansea, Millwall and Manchester United, who are second from the bottom, although they beat Port Vale Saturday.

In the third southern Norwich City suffered a 3 to 0 loss at Oldham Athletic, but still have a six-point lead over Coventry City, with two more clubs right behind. There remains only a bare mathematical possibility of tying the leaders.

Glasgow, April 16.—Vital relegation games in the Scottish Football League worked out badly for Third Lanark, who after a loss at Patrick Thistles are now only a point above Airdrieonians with Cowdenbeath definitely in the cellar and headed for the second division. Airdrieonians, with a good win over Hearts, have still a fine chance to stay in the first division.

The first division scheduled was curtailed on account of the international match at Wembley Stadium. The matches generally were played in dull weather after a week's rain. Patrick Thistles caused Third Lanark's supporters dismay when they defeated the visitors, 3 to 0.

McLennan scored all three goals. On the other hand Airdrie, at home to the hearts, got the best of a 3 to 2 count. Sharp for Airdrie and Coutts for the Hearts scored in the first half and in the second McInnes got two more for the hosts, one on a penalty, while Walker scored for Hearts.

St. Mirren, who will meet Rangers in the cup final, were held to a scoreless tie at Aberdeen and are only three points from the danger zone. Airdrieonians have twenty-two points and three games to go; Third Lanark, twenty-three and two to go; while St. Mirren and Hibernians both have twenty-five points with three and two games left respectively.

Celtic had a poor day, leading Hamilton 1 to 0 at half time only to have Wilson get a tying goal for Hamilton in the second half and then being unable to break the deadlock. Johnston's goal in the first half gave Clyde a victory over Hibernians and Dods's first-half goal was sufficient for Queen's Park to beat Falkirk.

KERRISDALE WINS INTERCITY MATCH

CHANGE MADE
John Watt replaced Harry Holmes on the local lineup as the second half opened and played centre forward. While Ernie Betteridge moved from the pivot position to the right wing.

With only nine men, Kerrisdale fought a game fight in the second half and received plenty of encouragement from the sympathetic Victoria soccer followers. Kerrisdale used three forwards most of the time, while sometimes only two men appeared in the front rank.

Victoria attacked heavily in this half, but a defence that was sound without all offensive plays engineered by the locals.

On a fast breakaway, Richards almost increased Kerrisdale's lead when he sent in a bullet drive after accepting a pass from Wilkinson. De Costa was forced to dive at full length to save the shot.

G. Hunter was substituted for Richards a few minutes later. With Victoria gaining the upper hand again Shimmin made a phenomenal save of Stewart's sizzling drive from the goal mouth.

KERRISDALE TIES

Tiring rapidly under the heavy pace, the visitors found the sidelines at every opportunity in the second half and when the final whistle sounded it was a weary but happy Kerrisdale nine that almost crawled from the field, after displaying one of the finest exhibitions of defensive football seen here for some time. Saunders refereed.

The teams follow:
Kerrisdale—Shimmin, Campbell, Brady, White, H. Hunter, Platt, Corlett, Wilkinson, Rothweiler, Bernard, Richards and G. Hunter.
Victoria United—De Costa, Esler, Gibbons, Williams, Barnes, McBay, Holmes, Stewart, Betteridge, Robinson, Wagland and John Watt.

Vancouver, April 16.—St. Andrews managed to hold New Westminster Royals to a 1 to 1 tie in an Inter-city Soccer League match Saturday.

TOMBSTONE COMPETITION

Finishing at the twentieth green, R. J. Humberstone won the monthly tombstone competition played at the Gorge Vale Golf Club yesterday.

Runners-up for Juvenile Hoop Title

Centennial All-Blacks basketball squad, members of the Royal Juvenile Athletic Association, had a great season and just missed winning the championship, being defeated by St. Louis College in the three-game play-offs, by a single point, in the deciding fixture. The All-Blacks did not lose a league fixture except the play-off games, and in exhibition games defeated Shawinigan Lake and Oshawa senior quintettes. They were the only local club to defeat the Aroun Indians during their recent visit to the city. Those pictured above, from left to right, follow: G. Harknett, J. Swenson, H. Bowman, G. Hampton, Vic. Rawlings, J. McGary, C. Couch, J. Travis, Ted Hammond, Bob Macmurchie (coach) and Dr. A. F. Barton (manager). Dr. Barton has devoted a great deal of his time and energy to the development of these youngsters.

Montreal Nationales Will Meet Dalhousie

Basketball Teams Open Eastern Senior Men's Final To-night; Vancouver Province Oppose Robertson Memorial Wednesday Evening

The Nationales of Montreal, whose two-straight triumph over the favored Assumption College team of Windsor has boosted the stock of the Quebec champions to a new high, will try another hurdle to-night in the race for the Canadian senior basketball title. They start a best-out-of-three series against Dalhousie University at Halifax.

This is one Dominion semi-final series. The other starts Wednesday night at Winnipeg between Vancouver Province, champions of the far west, and Winnipeg Robertson Memorial, Manitoba titleholders. The Vancouver team reached the western final by downing Raymond, Alta., Union Jacks in two straight games.

Windsor, whose senior challengers faltered in their first interprovincial engagement, gathered in two more Ontario championships Saturday evening. The border cities T.V.C.A. team captured the provincial women's intermediate title by defeating Toronto Parkdale 59 to 54 on the two-game round. They were beaten 29 to 24 Saturday night.

Playing at Kingston, the Windsor Y.M.C.A. Arrows won the men's intermediate crown, 61 to 57, although beaten in the second game of the final series by Kingston "Y," 23 to 21.

WIN FOUR TITLES

These wins brought to four the number of Ontario basketball championships won by Windsor this season. Both senior titles were taken to the border, Assumption College winning in the men's division and the Windsor Alumnus team dethroning Toronto ladies.

Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A. won the Dominion junior championship at Montreal, defeating the Canadian Pacific A.A.A. team of Montreal for the second straight time. The score Saturday night was 31 to 30 and the round score was 68 to 53.

In the first game at Woodstock, Toronto St. Andrews downed Woodstock 31 to 22 to become favorites to capture the two-game, total-points round.

To-night at Montreal the Dominion semi-final intermediate series between Saint John Trunks, Maritime champions, and Montreal Y.M.C.A. opens with the second game to-morrow. Winners play Windsor Arrows for the national crown.

HOOP RULES ARE CHANGED

Ten Minor Alterations Will Be Written Into Code For 1934-35 Season

New York, April 16.—The National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada adjourned its annual meeting yesterday evening after making only minor alterations in the rules for the 1934-35 season.

Of ten changes which will be written into the code, only three were of general interest, and all were minor. One imposes a penalty for teams not ready to start either half, a technical foul for each minute of delay.

Another makes it mandatory for officials awarding the ball out of bounds to a team in its forecourt to hand the ball to the proper player instead of merely touching him or tossing it to him; and the third provides that after successful free throws that are taken until the ball is put in play at centre. Time, now when fouls are called, will not resume until the free-thrower actually misses his shot, instead of when the ball leaves his hands.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

ONLY OF JOY

Only of joy can I sing to-day,
Though earth is sombre and skies are gray,
Only of joy, for in all I see
Beauty and love are revealed to me.

Beauty which out of the shadow smiles
And love that can conquer long years and miles;
These are about me from hour to hour,
And from these springs joy as the fruit
From the flower.

Only of joy, of joy I tell,
For the voice of joy is a chorus swell
Above, below, from far and near,
Always they breathe in my happy ear.

For life is as lovely as any dream,
And gladness runs through its whole vast scheme,
For him whose soul is attuned to see
Beauty and love in life's tapestry.

CHARM SECRET SEEN IN WORDS

Girl Must Not Bore With Vocabulary, Or Man Will Go Elsewhere

By HELEN WELSHIMER

To be dull is an inexcusable sin. Men will not forgive it. Least of all the man you have married or the one you want to marry. The easiest method of producing a dish-water boredom is by constant repetition of the same words in conversation. In fact, with a whole dictionary of words to keep a man guessing, it is astounding that we try the same old letter combinations. A flock might be something besides chic, smart, pretty, glamorous, alluring or intriguing. Not all children are cute. We just do not know what else to say about them.

The vocabulary extension society should begin before a child is old enough to have made certain adjectives adhesive. Little five-year-old Jean Vizetelly Cochrane, who knows and uses 8,000 words, according to a recent news announcement, should never be at a loss in talking to a man. Her mother has given her an important charm secret. Her friends will always know whether she is referring to a new hat or a new romance by the variation in words. Not all of us have that differentiation.

HATE TO BE BORED.
Long, long ago a wise teacher remarked that if we train a child in the way that he should go when he is old he will not depart from it. If a small girl is given access to colorful, interesting words, she will not revert to "nice" as a nondescript way of delineating — Mr. Webster, too, is rather limited at times — anything from a new kind of gelatin to Garbo's eyelashes.

Still, it would be rather dreadful to have whole trunks filled with shining new words and discover that they could not be used because no one understood them! Something like having a row of party dresses hanging in one's wardrobe and not a party in 100 miles.

Men hate to be bored. In fact they refuse to be. They choose another stage and put on their show for someone else when the applause of the former audience loses its enthusiasm. But they also like to feel that they are slightly superior to the women in the audience. They want to know just a little more about the subject under discussion. If a woman begins to talk in words that are as strange as the tongues that were loosed at the Tower of Babel men will probably run away to find a sweet little dumb-bell who cannot do anything but nod her head and use the word that never fails. For any nit-wit seems to know that men like to be called "wonderful."

WORD ALL MEN FALL FOR
Right here is the danger of a too-extensive vocabulary. A woman whose adjectives have fine meanings of distinction may use a descriptive phrase that will make a gentleman the King of Siam himself. But if he does not know about his exaltation

SIDE GLANCES

"Darling, these are my parents. You're going to love them."

she might as well be calling him cantankerous or boorish. In fact, a warning should be issued that the word "wonderful" still leads the list.

Louis Bromfield, well-known young author, remarked not long ago that no woman need ever be afraid of telling a man too many times that he is wonderful. She may feel guilty about it. She need not. It will not hurt him. A woman who consistently tells a man he is wonderful may have as much appeal as a long-handled mop and as much kick as a glass of lukewarm water, but she has the key-word.

For other purposes, though, the word increase piques interest. The small girl who knows 8,000 words is to be envied. She can make even a can of tomatoes or last night's leftover scalloped potatoes sound alluring. So long as she remembers the word men love she may swallow a whole lexicon. And if she does not, well, what help are the other words anyway?

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

By Alex Pringle, Canadian Press Financial Writer

Toronto, April 15.—The outcry against market ridding and the Toronto Stock Exchange's investigation into alleged manipulations in Maple Leaf and Colman's stock apparently are having a sobering effect on the mining share market. Sales have dwindled steadily through the week and prices have undergone almost general, though narrow, declines.

A drop in Colman's from 94 to 44 and in Maple Leaf from 96 to 55 in one week, was considered by the management committee of the exchange as sufficiently suspicious to warrant a probe. Friday the scope of the inquiry was widened to take in the operations in Bagmac over a six-day period, in which it swung between 60 and 23 cents.

Outside of the exchange's sphere of control are found dozens of brokers dealing in half a hundred unlisted mining stocks and these people are also being watched. Col. Drew, Ontario securities commissioner, Friday cancelled the license of an unlisted brokerage firm who allegedly sent out false information to prospective clients.

Washington developments, looking to a show-down next week regarding the place of silver in the monetary scheme, caused no particular stir in the Canadian group silver stocks. Canadian industrial shares maintained a strong front throughout the week on only moderate volume. The oil group and some of the distillery shares were weak-end features, both Imperial and International Petroleum touching new high marks for the year. Pete is reported to be doing well on its sales to U.S. refiners and its earnings must naturally find reflection in the income of Imperial Oil, by which concern it is controlled.

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, April 15.—A full in foreign demand, coupled with weakness in outside markets during the past six days shaded wheat values fractionally on the wheat market. Further liquidation of government holdings was accomplished with appreciable mounts sold.

A large export trade in Canadian wheat featured trading during the early market period but this was followed by a slump in foreign buying which coincided with weakness at Chicago. Losses for the week which ended Friday amounted to only 1/4 to 3/4.

May futures showed the smallest decline to finish at 66 1/2, July dipped 1/4 to 67 1/2 and October 1/4 to 68 1/2. Action in the Liverpool market was encouraging in view of the large movement of wheat from Argentina. This was construed as an indication of poorer crop prospects in Europe.

Cash wheat and corn grains have shown little activity during the past week. No. 1 hard wheat held its price of 2 1/4 cents over the May future while No. 1 northern narrowed to 1/4 under May wheat.

Chicago, April 15 (Canadian Press).—Apparent likelihood of restrictions on United States grain exchange dealings will be made lighter instead of heavier gave many traders new hopes for higher prices ahead.

A rosier tinge on the horizon was also associated with approach of the opening of lake navigation. It is pointed out Buffalo as well as Chicago has come close to the end of available supplies of wheat, and with navigation open will need liberal replenishing of stocks during the next few months.

Reflecting, however, recent heavy liquidating sales on the part of holders of May delivery contracts, the wheat market this morning was 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents lower than a week ago, with corn 3/4 to 1 1/4 down; oats 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 off, and provisions showing 15 to 20c decline.

LABOR OUTLOOK NOW FOGGIER

Auto Industry Settlement Called Piece of "Social Engineering"

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 15.—The outlook for labor under the new deal is now slightly foggier than most of the other outlooks.

The Roosevelt plan for dispute settlement in the unorganized basic industries will be applied to steel, oil, rubber and others—if the automobile settlement doesn't blow up first.

Organized labor and its friends—Roosevelt, Perkins, Wagner and Green—are making what perhaps can be described best as a strategic retreat before the grim, embattled captains of industry.

The A.F. of L. received a hard blow in the auto strike settlement, which benefits its two worst enemies—company unions and the Communist union.

With some reason—for it had many promises it expected to be bottled-nursed by the administration. Now the bottle has been taken away and what the A.F. of L. can do about it remains to be seen.

The auto settlement is a piece of "social engineering," as Roosevelt says. It also is a quiet means of things industry, labor, or the government itself have said simply couldn't work.

(Unofficial administration attitude had been against company unions and it was officially conceded that collective bargaining should be carried on only by majority groups of employees.)

Roosevelt faced a stiff-necked industry, stronger than its opponents, both because the latter were poorly organized and because two-thirds of the industry's season production had been achieved, which unquestionably wasn't bluffing.

The president's recovery programme was threatened by a strike wave. His NRA was under attack from every conceivable source and its future in grave doubt.

He couldn't depend on a labor victory if he fought the industry—A.F. of L. weakness was demonstrated by the ease with which Green and the Detroit boys accepted the settlement terms. That's why Roosevelt backed water.

trouble for himself, and it's almost certain that he will have to make a strong bid for labor support before elections. He may even strike boldly at industrialists within a fortnight—no one ever knows what he will do next.

Future labor developments are equally vague. (The labor crowd here is completely confused.) It's that delightful uncertainty about everything which makes life here so interesting.

"CADDY" SEEN AT ROSS BAY

Monster Reported By Three Persons Who Saw It on Thursday and Friday

With the clearer weather of late Mr. and Mrs. Cadborosaurus have been sighted more often around Victoria.

Cyril B. Andrews of Pender Island, who is in the city for a short stay, saw one of the serpents on Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock disappearing in the vicinity of the breakwater. Mr. Andrews, who has seen "Caddy" twice before, and was among those to swear an affidavit of what he saw, recognized "Caddy" again. There were a number of other persons on the waterfront at the time, many of whom stated they also saw "Caddy."

On Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Sabiston, 125 Joseph Street, saw "Caddy" about 3 o'clock in Ross Bay. Mr. Sabiston, who was using a surveyor's transit at the time, had his attention attracted to a commotion in the water where a number of seagulls had been disturbed.

Mr. Sabiston had a good look at the creature and was able to make out distinct markings. It was greyish green in color, had an unusual head with peculiarly shaped ears, and a serrated back, he stated. He could not accurately judge its length, but stated the water broke a considerable length behind it.

Mrs. Hurdle, who had formerly regarded stories of a sea monster skeptically, saw all that was described by Mr. Sabiston, stating she had seen it quite distinctly.

MEN LOOK FOR WORK WOMEN LOOK FOR?

No. Ladies don't sew any more; have not the time to fuss around sewing, cooking, washing and mopping.

Vacuum cleaners, electric stoves, oil burners, Frigidaires and other labor-saving devices, and whoopee—

Why should ladies work?

Bridge parties, afternoon teas, golf and general pow-wows must go on.

In 1914 there were 231 real estate firms—selling homes. To-day they have faded to 46. Of course, the fair sex must have somewhere to sleep.

In 1914 there were half a dozen puff, pie and pickle stores. To-day there are 46.

Laundries have jumped from 7 to 13. Cleaners and dyers from 20 to 31.

In 1914 there were no ladies' hair twisters, hair pluckers or face lifters. To-day there are 31.

Doctors, dentists and hospital accommodation have almost doubled, with a substantial increase in undertakers and a substantial decrease in population! A Bankrupt Sale of Piece Goods! The cheapest yet by far. Of course they're not to make things. Just to clean the car!

MONEY
that did
WORK in
14 YEARS

There is a safe and sure way to make your dollars work faster—to make them do their work in less time. It is by investing them in a GREAT-WEST LIFE profit-sharing policy. Here your money shares in the profits of one of Canada's foremost dividend paying companies.

If you had taken a GREAT-WEST 20-Payment Life Policy in 1920 it would be paid-up this year. In other words, it would only have required a fraction more than 14 premiums to be paid instead of the 20 contracted for. You would have no more premiums to pay; you would have insurance protection for life; and in addition you would continue to participate in the company's profits each year. This is the actual history of policy number P183394.

Put your money to work like that, with a GREAT-WEST LIFE profit-sharing plan. Write for details to our nearest Branch Office or to Head Office, Winnipeg.
